OILCAKES AND FEEDING STUFFS.

(COMMERCIAL PRESS TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, Jan. 1st.

Linseed cakes remain about unchanged on the week, but the tone continues firm, and higher prices are anticipated in the near future. London cakes are quoted £12 7/6 to £12 10/- ex mill, with superior quality at £12 12/6 ex mill.

Cottonseed cakes meet with a keen demand, and boats are quickly cleared on arrival; goods to arrive shortly are held for £9 12/6 ex ship. London-made cakes are held for £10 on rail, but delivery is irregular.

Coconut cakes are dearer on the week owing to small supplies, together with a good inquiry. On the spot £9 15/- is required, and white quality, to arrive, £9 15/- ex ship.

Decorticated groundnut cakes have fully maintained the recent advance, and, with supplies very light, further enhanced prices are expected to be realised. Light Rufisque cannot be obtained under £10 15/- landed, while superior white is held for £11 landed, and Coromandel, to arrive, £10 2/6 c.i.f.

AMERICAN AND CANADIAN MEAT IMPORTS.

During the past week six steamers landed sheep and lamb carcases, pork, and fresh beef at Liverpool from the various North and South American and Colonial ports. The vessels, with their freights, were as follow:—The Avon, from Buenos Ayres, with 10,387 sheep and lamb carcases, 339 carcases of pork, and 7,160 qrs. of beef; the Philadelphia, from New York, with 1,782 carcases of pork and 5,824 qrs. of beef; the Welshman, from Portland, with 4,666 carcases of pork; El Paraguayo, from Buenos Ayres, with 9,160 sheep carcases and 43,025 qrs. of beef; the Bohemian, from Boston, with 1,526 carcases of pork; and the Cymric, from New York, with 2,916 qrs. of beef—making a total of 19,547 sheep and lamb carcases, 8,313 carcases of pork, and 68,931 qrs. of beef. Compared with the imports of the preceding week, these figures show an increase of 19,547 sheep and lamb carcases and 64,018 qrs. of beef, and a decrease of 5,982 carcases of pork and 11,556 boxes of meat.

GLASGOW WOOL SALES.

Messrs. F. H. M'Leod and Sons, of Bishop Gardens Wool Stores, report as follows:—Christmas and New Year holidays have had some effect on the wool trade, and the week just concluded, and transactions have during the week been quite so numerous. The business done, however, has been at the full rates recently current. Cheviots have been in more favour, and a fair quantity of this class has been disposed of. Stocks with business in a sound and healthy condition. Stocks of all grades are light, and there is therefore the prospect of the present high range of values being well maintained.

Friday, 31st December, 1915.

ROYAL ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF IRELAND.

The Council met on Saturday, Sir R. H. Woods, Vice-President, in the chair. Also present:—Professor G. H. Carpenter (Hon. Secretary), Dr. MacDowel Cosgrave (Hon. Treasurer), W. F. Peebles, Dr. C. A. K. Ball, M. F. Headlam, Professor Scott, Dr. Scriven.

Visitors to the Gardens during Christmas holidays brought the usual amount of dainties with them for their special pets. The chimpanzees came in for a good share, given by permission of the keeper. Formerly, before these specimens were protected by the glass screen from an indiscriminating public, they were frequently given injurious goodies, which were anything but beneficial to their well-being. Now that is altered. It is quite amusing to see the small-sized chimp., known to frequenters as "Charlie," rap on the glass to draw attention to his needs, and then turn round to the wire door in the inner passage leading to his cage, as much as to say: "There's the way in," and he immediately, on the slightest move towards the passage door, rushes to the wire opening, where he stretches out a hand for the expected dainty. "Empress," who inhabits the same compartment, looks on in disdain from the lofty top crossbeam, and only sometimes condescends to come slowly down, as if it were beneath the dignity of a gorilla to come when called. "Mr. George," who lives next door, gets very annoyed if he is left out in the cold, and makes his anger known by shaking the wire door for all his worth until some notice is taken of him. The Gibbon has been recently quartered in the cage looking into the general monkey house, and is seen to greater advantage and also attracts many admirers by its graceful motion and peculiar voice, which rises to so high a pitch.

The number visiting the Gardens for the week was 1,675.

Messrs. Martin sent a horse for the carnivora, and another was received from Captain Hope Nelson.

The annual meeting of the Society is fixed for Thursday, January 27th.

"I am now quite well."

Our portrait is of Mrs. Hewitt, of 117 Tilbury Dwellings, Tilbury, who writes:—"My leg was covered with large ulcerated sores. I consulted four doctors at different times, and they gave me medicine and ointments, but still I seemed to get worse. One day a neighbour asked me to try Clarke's Blood Mixture, and after taking several bottles I am completely cured. At one time my leg was so bad that the doctors thought I should have to have it amputated, but thanks to Clarke's Blood Mixture I am now quite well."

CURED BY

If you suffer from any such disease as Eczema, Scrofula, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Glandular Swellings, Boils, Pimples, Sores of any kind, Piles, Blood Poison, Rheumatism, Gout, &c. don't waste your time and money on useless lotions and messy ointments which cannot get below the surface of the skin. What you want and what you must have to le permanently cured is a medicine that will thoroughly free the blood of the poisonous matter, which alone is the true cause of all your sufferings. Clarke's Blood Mixture is just such a medicine. It is composed of ingredients which quickly expel from the blood all impurities from whatever cause arising, and by rendering it clean and pure can be relied on to affect a complete and lasting cure.

Over fifty years' success. Pleasant to the taste.

Clarke's Blood Mixture

Of all Chemists and Stores, 2/9 per bottle. Refuse Substitutes.

TOWN TENANTS AND COAL PRICES.

The Executive of the Town Tenants' League met on Thursday evening last at the central offices of the Town Tenants' League, 43 Parnell square, Dublin—Mr. Edward McHugh, solicitor, in the chair.

Mr. Coghlan Briscoe moved:—

That this Executive condemns, in the strongest possible manner, the recent additional increase of 2/- per ton in the price of coals, which is now at the abnormal price of 37/- per ton, a price which, in our opinion, is wholly unwarranted. That we express our regret at the apathy of the Government and Parliament regarding this vital matter; and we now call on the members of the House of Commons who are not interested in coal to take immediate steps when Parliament reassembles to have legislation introduced and passed into law which will enable coals to be procured at a fair price.

Mr. Briscoe said that there was a very strong feeling in the City of Dublin that the time had come when action should be taken regarding this important matter. At Birmingham, as the result of negotiations between the Lord Mayor and the coal merchants, a maximum price had been fixed for the delivery area which would enable coals to be sold from 24s. per ton, and the merchants there had also agreed not to supply dealers who sold coal at an unfair price to the workers and the poor. At Belfast action had also been taken, and other centres in England were moving.

Mr. Monaghan suggested that the resolution should be sent forward to the Joint Committee which the Town Tenants' League had formed of its members, trade unionists, and the allied trades, so that effective steps might be taken in the near future to focus the attention of the public of Dublin on it. They should also deal with the continued rise in the prices of food. The position in Dublin was becoming unbearable, and strong action would have to be taken very soon to deal with it.

Messrs. Shanley, Fleming, and McGrane supported the resolution, and the Chairman, in declaring it passed unanimously, said he thoroughly agreed with the suggestions of Mr. Monaghan, and he thought, in addition, the Dublin Trades Council should be asked to cooperate in this matter.

CENSORED LETTERS.

DR. MANGAN'S COMPLAINT.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

KILLARNEY, SUNDAY.

At half-past ten o'clock Mass, in the Cathedral, Killarney, to-day, Dr. Mangan, Bishop of Kerry, addressing those present, said—In drawing your attention to the public censoring of our letters I feel that I am dealing with a subject that affects very vitally some of our most sacred spiritual interests. Let me make myself perfectly understood. I do not object to the censoring of private letters in the critical times through which we are passing, but that should only be done under certain well-defined limitations. If responsible Government authorities have sufficient reason to believe that certain persons are using the Post Office to further objects hostile to the Government, I think that no reasonable person can object to the Government if it tries to protect itself against such people and opens their letters. But to assert that a number of Government officials—sometimes blundering, and, I must add, I fear, sometimes also bigoted—should have a free hand to open all letters, no matter to whom they are addressed, this is a proposition to which I shall never subscribe. As an example, let me give you my own experience. Some twelve days ago I found that a letter addressed to me was opened by the Censor. I wrote at once to the Postmaster-General enclosing the censored envelope. By return of post I got a courteous reply, stating "that he was pleased to refer my letter to the War Office, which was the department concerned, and that doubtless I would hear from them very soon." I have waited since without a reply, and on last Saturday I received another censored letter. Now, brethren, considering the sacred office I hold as your Bishop, I feel that I should be gravely wanting in my duty to it, and to the faithful committed to my charge, if I did not here in this Cathedral enter a solemn protest against treatment of this kind. In conclusion Dr. Mangan said—We have read much of the blundering of these censors, but I can scarcely believe that the action which I have been describing can have the approval of their masters. Yet, before making this serious charge, I have approached these masters, but they have not even condescended to acknowledge my letter. Let me add that if they persevere in this policy they may yet learn that we can defend ourselves.

REMARKS.

There has been no outstanding feature in the rainfall of 1915, which was only one-fifth of an inch over the twenty-six years' average for Mallow (39.77 inches), and in this respect is nearer the mean than any previous year's rainfall, with the exception of 1911, which had a total of one-hundredth of an inch less! Two interesting monthly records have, however, been established, February providing a maximum for that month with a rainfall of 7.48 inches (average 3.42 inches), and March a minimum with .56 inch (average 3.05 inches).

DEPARTMENT GRANTS TO TEACHERS' CLASSES.

STATEMENT BY "MANSION HOUSE CONFERENCE."

A meeting of the Mansion House Conference on the teaching of Irish was held in the Mansion House, Dublin, to consider the withdrawal of the grants paid by the Department of Agriculture for teachers' classes. The Conference, which comprises representatives of the County Councils, Managers' Associations, the Irish National Teachers' Organisation, the Irish Colleges, and the Gaelic League, formulated the following statement:—

"We protest in the strongest manner, on educational as well as national grounds, against the action of the Department of Agriculture in withdrawing the provision made for teachers' classes in the subjects of their programme. Being strongly convinced that public economy should naturally be applied in a manner which is not hostile to the opinions and feelings of the people, we hold that this form of retrenchment is an affront to public sentiment in this country.

"The Gaelic Colleges and teachers' classes in Irish under Technical Instruction Committees, which are the bodies principally affected by the withdrawal, provide for the training of teachers in a branch of educational training hitherto neglected by the Administration. The comparatively petty saving thus effected—practically immaterial as regards Imperial expenditure—is wholly incommensurate with the damage done to a remarkable form of constructive educational effort. We protest against such retrenchment in public expenditure as curtails the grants to education in this country, already notoriously inadequate."

The statement is signed by the following:—Lorcan Sherlock, Esq., T.C., LL.D., ex-Lord Mayor, and Professor Douglas Hyde, LL.D., D.Litt.; the Very Rev. Monsignor Hallinan, P.P., D.D., V.G., Newcastle West; the Very Rev. Archdeacon O'Farrell, P.P., V.G., Ardagh; the Very Rev. Monsignor Quinn, P.P., Carlingford, President St. Brigid's Irish College, Omeath; the Ven. Archdeacon O'Leary, P.P., V.G., Kenmare—representing the Managers' Associations; Mr. M. O'Shaughnessy, J.P., Co.C., Limerick, representing the General Council of County Councils; Miss C. M. Mahon and Mr. C. Mansfield, representing the National Teachers' Organisation; the Very Rev. Canon Munelly, P.P., V.F., Ballycastle, and Rev. J. W. Meehan, C.C., Castlebar, representing the Connacht Conference on Irish; Professor Eoin MacNeill, representing the Gaelic League; Miss Agnes O'Farrelly, M.A.; Rev. James Quinn, C.C., Bessbrook; Dr. W. Bradley, J.P., Drogheda; Messrs. George A. Moonan, Joseph Dolan, M.A., Ardee; and A. J. O'Loughlin, Castlebellingham—representing the Colleges for training teachers of Irish.

VACANT LAND CULTIVATION SOCIETY.

GARDEN PLOTS FOR DUBLIN WORKINGMEN.

On Saturday afternoon Miss S. C. Harrison, on behalf of the Vacant Land Cultivation Society, met a large number of workingmen on Fairbrothers' fields, at the South side of the city, and entered into an arrangement with them by which they are to become tenants, each, of a small plot of land, which they are to use as vegetable gardens, and which they are bound to cultivate by their own, and not by hired, labour. The large field has been pegged out, with the assistance of Mr. Higginbottom, C.E., into eighty plots, and each man (or woman) will receive a rood or half a rood, as may be deemed suitable to his or her capacity to cultivate it. Fairbrothers' fields have been acquired by the Corporation of the city as a site for artisans' or labourers' dwellings, but, owing to the war, and the refusal of the Treasury to sanction a loan for the purpose, building operations must be postponed for an indefinite period. In the meantime, the Vacant Land Cultivation Society has acquired possession of the land, and they are letting it at a small rent to each person who has been lucky enough to draw a lot. The "draw" took place on Saturday, and about fifty persons were assigned their plots. The rents must be paid by the 14th inst., and each person who has paid his rent becomes thereby a member of the Vacant Land Cultivation Society. The cultivation and management of the plots will be governed by rules, which Miss Harrison read out to the future tenants, and which they all agreed to abide by. She expressed the hope that this was but the first of many gardens which would be taken in hand in a similar way in and around the City of Dublin, that the experiment would be a great success, and confer great benefits upon the working people. Miss Harrison explained that the Chairman of the Society (Rev. J. McDonnell, S.J.) was prevented by illness from being with them that evening. She also had letters of regret from the Lord Mayor and Mr. Field, M.P.

LEITRIM WOMAN DROWNED.

A STRANGE CASE,

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

SLIGO, SATURDAY.

Dr. Carroll, Coroner, held an inquest at Conaghill, Dromahair, Co. Leitrim, on the body of Mary Ann M'Goldrick, aged 33 years.

The husband of the deceased woman deposed that on the night of the 27th ult. a man came to his bedroom window about 11.30 and said, "Get up" or "rise up, Mary Ann, your father is not feeling well to-night." His wife then got up, and while she was dressing he went to the gable window and invited the man to come in, but he replied, "I'll be annoying the children; I'll wait until she comes out." His wife then came into the kitchen, and after she had left witness closed the door and went to bed. The following morning he went to his father-in-law's house and ascertained that he was not ill and that his wife had not called.

Michael M'Goldrick, brother of the deceased woman, deposed he went to bed about 10 p.m. on the date in question, and did not leave the house until the following morning.

Constable Daly deposed that he found the woman's body in a stream on John M'Goldrick's farm. He also noticed marks on the bank about nine or ten yards away from the stream, and it presented the appearance of a place where a struggle had taken place.

Dr. R. A. Rutherford, who made a post-mortem examination of the body in company with Dr. Dolan, gave it as his opinion that the woman died from drowning. There were no marks of violence or injury on the body except a slight abrasion on the left cheek.

The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the medical evidence.

BELFAST NEWS.

BELFAST OFFICE, 108 ROYAL AVENUE.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

SATURDAY NIGHT.

BELFAST AND RELIEF FUNDS.

Belfast and district has contributed almost £50,000 to the Prince of Wales's National Relief Fund, the actual total being £49,765 5s. 9d. Further subscriptions are being received by the Lord Mayor, and it is expected that the former figure will be reached in a short time. Belfast people have also contributed generously to a number of other funds, including the Belgian Relief Fund, Red Cross, Queen Mary's Needlework Guild, and a score of funds to provide comforts for soldiers and sailors. In the midst of these numerous appeals they have not lost sight of their own local charities. The donations received up to the present to the Belfast Coal Fund amounts to £1,059 10s. 6d., and it is expected that the contributions will, when completed, exceed those of last year. Owing, however, to the increased cost of coal the quantity distributed will probably not exceed that of twelve months ago.

FIRE IN A FACTORY.

A fire occurred last evening in the weaving factory of Messrs. Wm. Ewart and Son, Ltd., Crumlin road, one of Belfast's largest linen mills. The outbreak took place in the damask department, and a number of looms suffered damage, but the fire brigade men were able to prevent the fire from spreading to adjoining portions of the mills, which occupy some acres of ground, and contain much valuable machinery. A considerable portion of the glass roof covering the damask department was destroyed.

IRISH CATTLE TRADERS' ASSOCIATION.

The President, Mr. William Field, M.P., in the chair; J. O'Connor, Co. C.; James Griffin, J.P.; R. Smith, J.P., etc. Attention was drawn to the inconvenience caused by the mistaken diagnosis of an alleged foot-and-mouth case. The President stated he had asked a question about it in the House of Commons, but the reply was not quite satisfactory. Several complaints were made respecting the delay in the transit of live stock from various fairs, definite particulars to be furnished in order that application should be forwarded to the carrying companies. The Committee commented on the increase of rates and freights generally, and asked the President to make inquiry of the Board of Trade. The secretary was instructed to write to the Department of Agriculture for the report re warble fly experiments to date. It was agreed that in view of many likely changes in conditions arising from the war, it was of vital importance that the organisation should be active and strong to safeguard the interests of Ireland's staple product.

TRADING WITH THE ENEMY.

NEW FOREIGN OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

The Press Bureau issues the following:—

A Foreign Trade Department of the Foreign Office has been set up by the Foreign Office as a new department, in order to carry out the policy embodied in the Trading With the Enemy (Extension of Powers) Act, 1915. This Act gives power to prohibit trade by any person, firm, or company in the United Kingdom with any enemy, persons, or association established in neutral countries. As the Foreign Trade Department will be concerned with preventing trade by British firms and companies with the enemy in neutral countries it has been decided to merge with it the Trading with the Enemy Department of the Home Office, which has had the duty of enforcing measures already taken to prevent trading with the enemy, and the staff of which will continue to perform the same duties as the members of the new department, in addition to taking part in administration of the new Act.

Questions of contraband or hindrance of oversea trade between neutrals and the enemy, and the licensing of exports from this country, and all questions of trading with the enemy, other than those described above, will continue to be dealt with by the Government departments which have hitherto been charged with these questions. In order to secure the full benefit for British interests of the policy of the department, the advice and assistance of business men will be invited through Chambers of Commerce and other trade organisations. It is recognised that the success of this policy will depend upon the active co-operation of the business community. It is hoped, therefore, that business men will be willing to aid the department, and also that they will not hesitate to consult it in any matter in which it can be of assistance to them.

Mr. L. Worthington Evans, M.P., has undertaken the direction of the new department, with the title of Controller of the Foreign Trade Department of the Foreign Offices. Offices have been obtained at Lancaster House, The Mall, S.W. (above the London Museum), which will be opened on January 5th. All communications (including those relating to the matters previously dealt with by the Trading With the Enemy Department of the Home Office) should be addressed to the Controller of the Foreign Trade Department, Lancaster House, The Mall, London, S.W.

NEW YEAR'S DAY IN DUBLIN.

In Dublin the New Year made a bad beginning. Early in the morning there was a heavy thunderstorm, accompanied by vivid flashes of lightning. A regular gale prevailed all day, and frequently there were heavy showers of rain. In consequence of the weather there was not the usual bustle associated with Saturday in the city, and business was naturally impeded. The banks and the Stock Exchange were, of course, closed, and, indeed, many business establishments that closed at mid-day might not have opened at all, as there was very little business done. The severity of the weather did not, however, deter racegoers from attending the race meeting at Baldoyle, where the programme was successfully completed. The matinée performances at the theatres, music-halls, and picture-houses were well attended, and in the evening there were also large audiences at the places of amusement. The advent of the New Year has its religious significance, which is always observed in Dublin. In the churches of all denominations special Services were held, and they were attended by large congregations. Appropriate sermons were preached in reference to the coming year. They generally reflected the spirit of the people in expressing the hope that the war would end during 1916, and the determination to carry it through to a successful issue.

FREE IMPORT OF MATCHES TO RUSSIA.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

PETROGRAD, SUNDAY.

The Government has permitted the free import, until January 14, 1917, of up to a thousand million boxes of matches.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS.

DR. STEEVENS' HOSPITAL.

The Christmas season was observed at Dr. Steevens' Hospital in accordance with the traditions of the Institution. The wards and corridors were decorated by the sisters and nurses, the patients taking the greatest delight in giving assistance. In the children's ward was a huge Christmas tree, covered with all kinds of toys, and illuminated by countless candles of every variety and colour. On Christmas Day turkey and plum-pudding were the chief items on the menu-card. On Monday, the 27th December, the usual concert for the patients was given, and the best thanks are due to the following, who very kindly contributed in giving a most enjoyable entertainment:—Miss Jean Nolan, Miss V. Kidd, Miss Pauline Bosanquet, Mr. A. Norman, Mr. Nugent, Mr. J. Cowle, Mr. Douglas, Major Grimbly, Mr. Fred. Jeffs, Mr. Wilson Kelly, Mr. J. E. Morgan, and Mr. A. Grimbly. After the concert a Cinderella dance took place in the Nurses' Home. On Wednesday, 29th, the Matron and nurses were at home to many friends of the hospital. Dr. Marchant and some of the St. Patrick's Choir were present, and kindly arranged to have Carols sung in each of the wards. The patients expressed themselves delighted with the singing. The visitors were greatly pleased by the homely aspect of the Institution, and congratulated the nurses on the decorations and the general taste displayed.

MERCER'S HOSPITAL.

The Christmas festival was observed with much enthusiasm at Mercer's Hospital. The wards were decorated by the Nursing and Resident Staffs. On Christmas morning the children, on awaking, found plenty of toys and good things in their Santa Claus stockings. On Christmas Day the usual Christmas fare was provided for the patients and the wounded soldiers in the hospital. Each adult patient received at the same time a welcome present, and the soldiers received one from the patrons of the Dundrum Ward and also from the Matron. A short concert was given for the soldiers in the Dundrum Ward by Miss Jean Nolan, Madam Alicia Keogh, Mr. J. F. Jones, and Mr. Wilson Kelly. Mr. H. G. Shellard kindly presided at the piano. On Tuesday afternoon a concert was given in one of the wards of the hospital, the artists being Miss Edith Mortier, Miss Whittaker, Miss Hargreaves, Miss Jones, and Madam Joan Burke; also Nurse Clarke (dances), Messrs. Lewin, Hall, Vine Sanderson, and Mr. Wilson Kelly (humorous). Mr. Harold White played the accompaniments. During the interval refreshments were provided for the numerous guests and artists. On Wednesday afternoon the annual Christmas tree for the children who attend for treatment in the extern departments was held, and the little ones were supplied with tea, cake and fruit, and acceptable gifts from the tree. Much praise is due to the Lady Superintendent, Miss Jordan, and the Nursing Staff, Dr. Coyne, and the resident students of the hospital for their efforts to make the patients happy.

CONVALESCENT HOME, STILLORGAN.

On Wednesday evening last the Matron and Staff entertained the patients, their friends, and the villagers of Stillorgan and Foxrock with a play entitled "Our Aunt from California," the parts being filled by the staff, supplemented by a few friends, and it proved a great success. A special word of praise is due to Miss Harley, junior, who took the part of Sally with conspicuous ability. Her quaint making-up of the old aunt pleased the audience very much. A feature of the evening's entertainment was the graceful dancing and singing of Miss Lally Switzer. Among the guests were some men of the Royal Irish Rifles, who, as usual, were to the fore with musical items. Sergeant Pepper sang nicely, and for an encore gave a spirited rendering of "The Boys in Khaki." The hall was then cleared, and all joined in dancing, and a most enjoyable evening was concluded by one of the villagers proposing a hearty vote of thanks to the Matron for her kindness, which she acknowledged in suitable terms. Mr. Exshaw presided at the piano.

ST. MARY'S PARISH, DUBLIN.

The Carol choir, composed of members of St. Mary's Church and Chapel of Ease, during the fortnight preceding Christmas, sang in various parts of the city and the districts of Clontarf, Glasnevin, Pembroke, Rathmines, and Monkstown, on behalf of the poor of this old parish, which is situated in one of the most poverty-stricken districts of the city. The response given by the inhabitants of the various districts visited was most generous, and the money collected has been the means of affording much joy and comfort to those on whose behalf the self-sacrificing efforts of the members of the choir have been so freely given. A special contribution from the officers, patients, and staff of Simpson's Hospital, collected and forwarded by the Matron, Miss Berney, was much appreciated. On Tuesday, 21st ult., the district of Glasnevin was visited, and the choir was hospitably entertained by Mrs. Highton at "Windermere." Mr. George Johnston, the organist of the Parish Church, conducted the singing of the various carols and hymns throughout the tour. A special rendering of carols by the choir terminated the afternoon service at the Chapel of the Rotunda Hospital on St. Stephen's Day. The Rev. R. J. Walker, B.A., officiated.

ENTERTAINMENT AT GREYSTONES.

A good house was obtained at the entertainment organised at Greystones in aid of the Children's League of Pity, a branch of the N.S.P.C.C., last Wednesday. A large room had been placed at the disposal of the artistes by Mrs. Colomb at her house, Rossleigh. The programme was a varied one, including musical, dancing, and dramatic items. Two performances were given, one in the afternoon and another the same evening. Among the musical items Miss Olive Hurley's rich soprano voice was heard to great advantage in "I Hear a Thrush at Eve," while Mrs. Mackay's Irish songs each time received an encore. Two pretty Pierrot songs, taken from the Follies' repertoire, were well rendered by Master Mervyn Colomb, ably supported by a chorus of sixteen Pierrots and Pierrettes. The dresses, make-up, and training of these reflect great credit on those responsible for this charming turn. Miss Primrose Deane gave both a violin solo and an obligato in conjunction with Miss Leslie Smith, both of which revealed wonderful technique and mastery of her instrument. One of the most popular turns was the dances by Miss Kirk-Brown. Her Belgian Military Dance was graceful, and, at the same time, suggestive of much war-like ardour, while in a Dutch character dance she was delightfully quaint. In the evening two extra artistes appeared—Mr. Page, well known in Greystones for his tenor voice, and Mr. Bourke. They were very successful. An amusing farce, concluded the entertainment. Miss R. Deverell, as the widow, gave an excellent character sketch; while the part of the maid was given much prominence and point by Miss Dorothy Walker. As the unfortunate paying guest Mrs. Mervyn Colomb was good, and the Misses Peggy Collins and Irene Robinson, as the daughters, were excellent.

SATURDAY'S MATCHES.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather all the matches arranged to be played in Dublin on Saturday were postponed. The gates at Dalymount Park were not even opened. It is to be hoped that the fixture for the Red Cross Society, North v. South, will not be allowed to suffer from the effects of an indefinite postponement, but that the Leinster League will succeed in playing the match next Saturday.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. P. Rogers has purchased Athassel (aged), by Barcadaile—Glenquin, from Mr. C. J. Stephen.

The first race at Baldoyle on Saturday was put back ten minutes by order of the Stewards.

Crystal Gazer sustained fatal injuries when he fell in the Novices' Steeplechase at Baldoyle on Saturday.

The Same Agin, who made a successful debut over fences at Baldoyle, is a very promising young 'chaser.

The Executive of the Meath Hunt (Navan) Meeting have decided on not holding the usual fixture this year.

Mr. R. R. Fowler, Clerk of the Course at Lingfield, who died on November 25th, aged 62, left estate valued at £1,163 1/8 gross, with net personalty £905 5/1.

The Stewards of the Fairyhouse Meeting have under consideration the question of raising the value and increasing the distance of the Irish Grand National.

Sixty-eight horses took part in the half-dozen races which comprised the card at Baldoyle, at which meeting Mr. F. H. Clarke officiated as judge, in the absence of Capt. Tuthill, who is suffering from a cold.

Captain C. R. Hargreaves, of Remenham, Wraysbury, whose death is announced, was one of the oldest members of the Coaching Club. He also ran the stage coach, "The Rocket," between London and Portsmouth, from 1877 to 1882, and was noted for his skilful driving, the good quality of his horses, and the punctuality of the coach.

That there will be a much longer racing season in New York State this year than last season is practically assured. Rumour has it, says the "Thoroughbred Record" (Lexington), that the spring meetings will begin about May 1 and it will not be surprising should there be continuous racing until the middle or end of October. Such is the general feeling, and the report comes from fairly authentic sources.

BILLIARDS.

NEWMAN v. FALKINER.

BIG UNFINISHED ITEM BY FALKINER.

The above professionals continued their match of 16,000 up, Falkiner receiving 2,000 start, at the Grand Hall, Leicester square, London, on Saturday. In the afternoon Falkiner maintained his handicap advantage by averaging 58, for an aggregate of 574, against Newman's figures of 69 and 616 respectively. The chief breaks were—162 (full), 102, 57, and 178 by Falkiner, and 113, 56, 117, 83, 129, and 67 by Newman. Interval scores:—

Falkiner (in play)	8,417
Newman	6,623

Both men played remarkable billiards at night, Newman averaging 155 and Falkiner 146. The leader again reached his proper points. Newman made breaks of 140, 197, and 253, and Falkiner 105 (full) and 505 (unfinished), the latter constituting the Westerner's record compilation. Closing scores:—

Falkiner (in play)	9,002
Newman	7,244

INMAN v. AIKEN.

BOTH PLAYERS IN ARREARS.

Saturday evening's session of this match of 18,000 up, in Edinburgh, found both players in arrears, Aiken's deficit at the close being 844, and that of Inman 1,322. Aiken had a bad time in the afternoon, his only break of any account being 73, until he closed the session with a run of 63 (unfinished). He only aggregated 470, while Inman totalled 770, with subscriptions of 120, 151, and 192 to his credit. Interval scores:—

Aiken	8,599
Inman	6,998

In the evening Inman only scored 40 in the first hour, while Aiken made his suspended break into 95, and added 146 and 213 later. The scratchman then showed brilliant form in breaks of 206, 179, and 220. Closing scores:—

Aiken (rec. 2,000)	9,156
Inman	7,678

GRAY v. HARRIS.

A capital attendance was present at Messrs. Orme's Saloon, Manchester, on Saturday afternoon, when the above players continued their game of 16,000 up, Harris with 3,000 points start. The conceder of points had matters entirely his own way, and during the session scored 138, 210 (twice), and 246. Harris only scored 45, 26, and 25. Interval scores:—

Harris	8,230
Gray	6,420

There was no play at night.

STEVENSON v. CHAPMAN.

The ex-champion was in better form at Saturday afternoon's session, at Birmingham, winding up with three successive three-figure breaks, and 58 early on, including 30 off the red. Then came runs of 80, 64, 135, and 88, followed by 169, 160, 210 (including 72 close cannons), and 108. Chapman's best runs were 125, 77, 40, and 36 (unfinished). Interval scores:—

Chapman (rec. 2,500)	4,584
Stevenson	3,854

LONDON TOURNAMENT.

SMITH BEATS HARVERSON.

Possessed of a lead of 1,535 when the last stage of this match was entered upon, at Burroughes' Hall, London, on Saturday, Smith easily secured the issue, and he won by 1,709 points. At the first session he averaged 36 for 624 to Harverson's 530 and 31. The best breaks were—Smith, 315 (full) from 230 (unfinished), 59, 70, 122, and 219; and Harverson, 47, 40, 103, 87, 61, and 98. Interval scores:—

Smith	7,376
Harverson	5,947

Afterwards Smith continued in much the better form, aggregating 624, for an average of 44, to Harverson's 344 and average of 26. Smith, who made plenty of use of his faculty to score by the losing hazard method, compiled 194, 91, 88, 108, and 40 (unfinished). Harverson made 54, 56, 66, and 102. Full scores:—

Smith (rec. 500)	8,000
Harverson (rec. 1,000)	6,291

PEDESTRIANISM.

POWDERHALL HANDICAP.

The first ties in the Powderhall New Year Handicap were run off on Saturday in disagreeable weather, a high wind blowing, and rain falling at intervals during the proceedings; but the sport was not much affected by the conditions, for the grand stand sheltered the sprint track, which was in good order. The heats were, on the whole, dull, and the racing was distinctly colourless. Not a single heat favourite went under, and if Batock, once the original favourite for the Handicap, suffered that fate the public had been prepared for this by the manner in which he receded in the wagering. W. Muir (Leith), who was backed for small sums, did not survive, but he did not go to the post a favourite. Heat after heat found the fancied candidate qualifying for the second ties, in most cases in fairly easy fashion. The feature of the entry was the big proportion of runners from South of the Tweed, and in the racing the English nominees were remarkably successful, eleven of their number catching the judge's eye. Prior to the racing Barbour (Pendleton) was favourite, but at the close of the day Carlyle (Edinburgh), the only Scotsman backed for a substantial sum, had displaced him, being backed down to 5 to 2 against the Pendleton runner, who was next in demand at threes. Donaldson (Australia) ran well in his heat, but found the three yards penalty, imposed in respect to a recent win, too heavy a burden; and another notability who went under was Sergeant William Wells.

SPORTING NEWS.

BALDOYLE MEETING, SATURDAY.

RACING IN A RAINSTORM.

It is fortunately not often that racegoers in this country experience such inclement weather as that which almost completely marred the success of the New Year's Day fixture at Baldoyle. Friday night's gale abated in the early hours of Saturday, and the morning opened in promising enough fashion, but by noon the storm set in again with renewed vigour, and the wind and rain which swept the course effectually put a veto on enjoyment. The attendance, though naturally affected by the wretched conditions prevailing, was of satisfactory dimensions, and those who did brave the elements were recompensed for their hardihood by witnessing good racing, but, all the same, few were sorry when the last event was run off. It was, indeed, a dreadful afternoon, and even the stands afforded no shelter from the fury of the hurricane.

The ground was in much better galloping order than might have been expected in the circumstances, and strong fields were the order, sixty-eight horses being saddled for the half-dozen events; while backers had all the best of the argument with the layers. They began auspiciously by pinning their faith to Ulster and Bachelor's Club in the January Plate, as the pair singled themselves out at the last flight of hurdles, after jumping which they collided slightly, but neither jockey was to blame, and Ulster, staying on the better, earned the fiat over the brother to Hornet's Beauty, so that he still retains his maiden certificate under both codes.

A better class of timber-toppers contested the New Year Plate, and, in a field of fifteen, Mr. Brian always dominated the market, a wide gap separating him in the wagering from the quartette next in demand. The son of Ardoon ran right well, and his supporters were on good terms with themselves when he wrested the lead from Simon Ashton at the final obstacle, having negotiated which, he swerved, and Simon Ashton, to whom he was attempting to concede 21lbs., regained command, to score easily from Glencarbry, who passed the favourite close home. The winner belongs to Captain Henderson, of the 17th Lancers, who has several horses with Burns at the Curragh, and this was the first time he had the pleasure of seeing his colours borne in the van.

The Novices' Steeplechase brought out some promising beginners, most of them big and well grown, but several short of schooling, as was reflected in the amount of grief associated with the race, only six of the fourteen getting the course. Dinna Fash, who fell at Leopardstown, where he was well backed, was given a chance to redeem that failure, and left off at the head of the quotations, where he was joined before flagfall by The Same Agin, best backed of the others being Three Swallow and Rathduff. The regulation fence proved a barrier to the further progress of Dinna Fash, he coming down in company with a couple of others at that obstacle. Meanwhile The Same Agin was sailing along at the head of affairs, and, jumping "as if to the manner born," this very smart four-year-old never left the issue in doubt. He was hunted home by another of the same age called Tino, who should pay his way across the country, and on whom W. Beasley made a flattering entry into the ranks of steeplechase riders. The Same Agin had shown aptitude for hurdling when he scored over the "sticks" at Leopardstown in November, and, judging by his performance on Saturday, he should earn further laurels at 'chasing.

Although on the spot, Ballyhandy, who split Sir Thomas and Carnwherry at Foxrock last Tuesday, was not pulled out for the Novices' Hurdle Race, and, in his absence, Carnwherry was installed a hot order, as little as 6 to 4 being taken about him in a field of fourteen. It furnished the most exciting finish of the day, and it was only by a neck that the favourite squeezed home in front of Fair Mac, who made up a lot of leeway in the straight, and headed Carnwherry fifty yards from the judge's box, but the last-named came again gamely, and got in front as the post was reached, and a head behind the Maddenstown Lodge representative came the rank outsider, Quickset II., who was bang in the fighting line throughout.

Six of the ten runners for the Qualifying Steeplechase failed to complete the course, and of the survivors the Co. Limerick owned and trained Treaty Stone, who is a fine jumper, demonstrated marked superiority, albeit Mullacash was going right well until a mistake at the penultimate fence put him out of the reckoning. Bachelor's Flight, who has been in retirement since taking part in the Grand National last March, came out like a lion refreshed for the Sutton Plate, in which he put up a very smooth performance, and administered a decisive licking to the much-fancied Tweedledum, a nice stamp of jumper, who has shown smart form on the other side of the Channel over two miles, but was now running out of his distance, and was always held harmless by Mr. Frank Barbour's son of Flying Hackle. Details:—

12.40.—JANUARY PLATE of 60 sovs. A weight for age hurdle race. One mile and a half.

Mr. H. I. Ussher's b. h. ULSTER, by Ugly—Gabardine, a, 11-0 (£50) ......J. Harty 1

Sir Brendan made the running from Bachelor's Club, Ulster, and Donor's Green, with Ardont next, and May Boy last. There was little change in this order until approaching the last hurdle, when Sir Brendan dropped back, and Ulster went on in front, attended by Bachelor's Club and Symont. After jumping the last flight of timber Bachelor's Club drew up to Ulster, but the latter, retaining the lead, won easily by a length; two lengths divided second and third. Carninard set the pace to Shikari, Naughty Earl, Simon Ashton, and Lola, with Miss Rivers and Glencarbry next, and My Royal last. When seven furlongs had been covered, Simon Ashton assumed command, followed by Mr. Brian, Carninard, and Naughty Earl. Mr. Brian closed with the leader as they approached the last hurdle, but Simon Ashton, finishing the stronger, won easily by three lengths; half a length separated second and third. Maher's Dinna Fash, 5, 10-9 (T. Sheridan); Capt. S. C. Henderson's Scarteen, 5, 10-4 (E. Davy); Mr. C. J. Wilson's Cajole, 5, 10-9 (M. Dewdall); Capt. H. Dixon's Old Clifton, 4, 9-9 (D. Hannigan).

(Winner trained by M. Dawson, at Rathbride Manor, Curragh.)

Betting—4 to 1 each agst. THE SAME AGIN and Dinna Fash, 6 to 1 Three Swallow, 7 to 1 Rathduff, 10 to 1 Tino or any other.

The Same Agin showed the way to Dinna Fash, Tumbril, Scarteen, and Tino, with Old Clifton next, and Cajole and Irish Eyes the last pair. So they ran for three-quarters of a mile, when The Same Agin, Dinna Fash, Tino, and Tumbril were the leading lot, with Crystal Gazer heading the others. A mile from home Crystal Gazer fell, and at the regulation Dinna Fash, Hedu, and Cajole came to grief, while the next fence brought down Old Clifton. Half a mile further on, The Same Agin came clear away, and won in a canter by four lengths; a similar distance divided second and third. Rathduff was fourth, Scarteen fifth, and Tumbril next.

2.10.—THE NOVICES' HURDLE RACE of 100 sovs. A weight for age hurdle race for maidens. One mile and a half.

Mr. H. S. Gray's ch. c. CARNWHERRY, by Arizona—Lady Egremont, 4, 10-10 H. Harty 1

Rogers' Almholme, 4, 10-0 (Joseph Doyle).

(Winner trained by Anthony, at Westeran, Kildare.)

Betting—6 to 4 agst. CARNWHERRY, 4 to 1 Fair Mac, 6 to 1 Almholme, 10 to 1 Quickset II. or any other.

Quickset II. set the pace to Carnwherry, Eager Princess, Grisanna, and Reinstated, with Craganock next, and Starboard Light and Fair Mac the last pair. So they ran for half the distance, when Quickset II. held a clear lead of Reinstated, Carnwherry, and Grisanna, Fair Mac being at the head of the others. Carnwherry took the lead a quarter of a mile from home, but swerved after jumping the last hurdle, and lost considerable ground. Fair Mac then assumed command, but was challenged close home by Carnwherry and Quickset II., and in a splendid finish Carnwherry won by a neck from Fair Mac, with Quickset II. a head off third. Reinstated was fourth, Craganock fifth, and St. Pam next.

Sheridan); Mr. A. Lowry's Carnisle, 5, 10-0 (J. Hogan); Mr. J. C. M'Keever's Jenny Jones, 5, 9-9 (M. Tierney); Mr. J. J. Parkinson's Brennan, 4, 10-0 (W. Beasley).

(Winner trained by R. Moss, at Patrick's Well, Limerick.)

Betting—7 to 4 agst. TREATY STONE, 4 to 1 Mullacash, 6 to 1 Lady Lightfoot, 7 to 1 each Carnisle and Jenny Jones, 100 to 7 Courtown or any other.

Lady Lightfoot settled down in front, followed by Courtown, Brennan, Treaty Stone, Carnisle, and Mullacash, with Duhallow last. Jenny Jones, Carnisle, Duhallow, and Miss Brookdale fell after going three-quarters of a mile, and a little further on Treaty Stone assumed command, followed by Mullacash, Brennan, and Lady Lightfoot, with Courtown next. Brennan fell at the regulation the second time round, and Treaty Stone, making the remainder of the running, won in a canter by six lengths; ten lengths divided second and third. Mullacash, who made a mistake at the third fence, was the only other to complete the course.

The owner of Brennan was fined for wrong colours.

3.10.—THE SUTTON PLATE of 70 sovs. A weight for age steeplechase. Three miles.

(Winner trained by Mr. Walker, at Rathvale, Athboy.)

Betting—5 to 4 agst. Tweedledum, 5 to 2 BACHELOR'S FLIGHT, 4 to 1 The Last, 5 to 1 Palmer's Hill, 10 to 1 Melon, 20 to 1 any other.

On settling down, Bachelor's Flight made the running from Melon, Tweedledum, Palmer's Hill, The Last, and Comic, with King of Meath last. Comic was pulled up after going half the journey, and The Last and King of Meath refused the regulation the last time round. Bachelor's Flight made all the running, and won in a canter by twelve lengths; a similar distance divided second and third.

GATWICK MEETING—SATURDAY.

SUCCESSFUL RESTART.

BERNSTEIN'S EASY VICTORY.

GATWICK, SATURDAY.

That the resumption of racing in the metropolitan circuit, in which Gatwick is generally included, was exceedingly popular was amply proved on Saturday, when a large company assembled to witness one of the best afternoon's sport under National Hunt Rules that we have on record.

It was most unfortunate that the weather should have to some extent marred the enjoyment of the entertainment. Throughout the afternoon the wind blew in a perfect gale, at first from the south-east, and later from a more westerly point, and during the opening stages of the proceedings rain fell heavily. However, the gathering was a complete success in every other respect, and a triumph of business-like management.

A field of a score for the Horley Hurdle Race provided a very encouraging send-off, but only five of them secured market notice, and they furnished the placed horses. Menlo, who obtained the strongest backing, never travelled in the race like a potential winner, and the issue appeared within a very narrow compass more than half a mile from home, where Blind Hookey, admirably handled by Piggott, had secured the measure of his rivals, and the Findon veteran, whose last success was registered here, eventually scored very readily from Mintmaster. Blind Hookey was cheaply retained at the subsequent auction at 85 gns. The Leatherhead Steeplechase proved quite a good thing for Les Ormes, who had too much speed for the old stagers that opposed him. Lynch Pin, who followed him home, was only warming to his work too late to trouble Mrs. Chilton's representative, who was retained at 55 guineas.

No fewer than 36 turned out for the Maiden Hurdle Race, which provided a problem to backers, which the majority failed to satisfactorily solve. The race was interesting from the fact that Green Falcon was making his debut over obstacles. He has to gain confidence, however, and after figuring with the rear division for half the journey he gave quite a promising exhibition. The race went to the Lewes horse, Paul Lamerie, who won in quite nice style from Early Hope, who will assuredly win in his turn. The Purley 'Chase was won in effortless fashion by Bernstein, who, without a doubt, is the making of a champion at this game.

A huge field contested the Reigate Hurdle, which enabled the backers to recover some of their losses, as the well backed Sweet Sun, and The Bore, succeeded in obtaining notice from the judge, the first-named, who started a sound favourite, winning easily from The Bore. Judging by the scattered appearance of those bringing up the rear, it is reasonable to assume that the majority of the runners were much short of practice. The fielders scored again in connection with the Crawley Steeplechase, in which neither Maid Marian nor Lord Rivers covered themselves with honours. At no stage did either of them flatter their respective backers, and, as the result Minster Vale furnished a complete turn up after a capital performance. Details:—

II.

Gyleen beat Royal Realm IV., and divided with Pretty Polly XX. and Carrigeen Rover, who ran an undecided course.

The full force of the hurricane on Friday night and Saturday was felt in Piltown and district. Trees were uprooted in all directions, and the countryside was flooded, while at several places fallen timber lay across the road, necessitating wide detours by those driving to the coursing ground. The wind blew with great violence throughout the day, but happily the rain cleared off before noon. The wild weather, however, kept all but the most enthusiastic coursers indoors, and the attendance was a comparatively thin one. The hare park suffered badly during the night. A quantity of the hares were drowned through the overflowing of an adjacent stream, and, owing to the shortage of game, three of the four stakes had to be left undecided. The conditions were, needless to say, altogether against coursing, and what with the ground very soft, the majority of the trials were short affairs, pussy on only rare occasions succeeding in eluding her pursuers. In the Puppy Stake Quaint ran her three courses right well, and is evidently a promising youngster, with pace and good working qualities, her superiority in the decider against Orpheus being very pronounced. Cheery Bob justified expectations by getting into the last round of the Bessborough Stakes and the fourth season Max Green, who divided with the son of Friendly Foe and Cradle Song, ran with much of his old-time fire. Quarrelsome and Queer Fellow divided the Piltown Stakes, and the Tinakelly Stakes ended in a triangular division after Pretty Polly XX. and Carrigeen Rover had run an undecided in the second round.

LIFEBOAT DISASTER.

THREE MEN DROWNED.

A disaster happened to the Porteynon lifeboat, off the Gower coast, near Swansea, on Saturday night, three of her crew being drowned. She went out to a steamer near the Worm's Head, in a dangerous position, and when half-way out she capsized, all the crew being thrown out. The waves ran thirty feet high, but twelve of the thirteen men managed to get back into her. Shortly afterwards she again capsized, and the men were again submerged. Two more men this time lost their lives. The names of the drowned lifeboatmen are—William Gibbs (coxswain), single; William Eynon (second coxswain), married, and George Harris, one of the crew. All belong to Porteynon.

The remainder of the lifeboat crew drifted into the Mumbres on Saturday afternoon in an exhausted condition.

GLASGOW TRAM ACCIDENT.

SEVERAL PERSONS INJURED.

An alarming tram accident occurred in the north-western district of Glasgow on Sunday afternoon. While a Corporation electric tramcar was proceeding along Bilsland Drive it apparently jumped the rails at a bad curve a few yards from the Forth and Clyde Canal Bridge, and dashed into the Canal wall. The top portion of the car, which was a double-decker, was jammed against the top of the wall, and the force of the impact halved the tramcar, causing the top portion of the car to lie sideways against the wall. Over forty passengers were on the car and several were badly injured. Some were removed in the ambulance to the Western Infirmary.

IRELAND AND COMPULSION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—May I venture to make a suggestion with regard to the present state of matters on the question of conscription? Let the Government have the courage to throw over the Derby scheme altogether—it must now stink in the nostrils of all honest men, and not least so in those of honest conscriptionists. They will then have a clean slate, and can bring in a proper scheme of universal service after the French system, without any invidious distinctions. If it is the duty of all fit citizens to fight in the present war, it is surely the duty of the married man to play one man's part, take his place in line with the single, and not to seek the rear ranks under the Derby scheme in the hope that he will never be called upon.

If the nation accepts a really comprehensive scheme, including, of course, conscription for wealth and workers, as well as for fighters, then, whatever difference of opinion there may be as to the rights or wrongs of compulsion, it would admittedly be a scheme worthy of a great nation; but any partial and one-sided plan would merely be a case of compelling "the other fellow", to do what one is anxious to avoid doing oneself. The writer speaks as a single man, who would be entitled to claim exemption under any scheme of conscription, so far as the fighting line is concerned.—Yours, etc.,

"DISGUSTED."

Dublin, January 1st, 1916.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In your issue of last Thursday appears the following paragraph, which I take from your leading article to be the official Unionist attitude as regards compulsion for military service in Ireland, rendered necessary, as you state, because "Ireland is not maintaining her quota":—

"Ulster Unionists are quite determined to do all in their power to see that compulsion is applied to unmarried men in Ireland, equally with those of Great Britain, provided it is made applicable to all Ireland. . . Should it apply to Ulster alone, Unionists in the North would like to be assured, before it comes into operation, that any men raised by the scheme should be given an opportunity to decide whether they are to go to the Ulster Division or to fill up vacancies in the other Irish Divisions."

The above statement is clear and precise. I cannot, however, follow your leading article: "The truth is that the Nationalist Party is afraid to accept compulsion for Ireland, and is equally afraid to refuse to accept it." I was under the impression that Mr. Dillon, M.P., objects to compulsion at any price. I am no politician, but I love my native land, and would like to beat the Germans at any cost. It distresses me to see Ireland dividing itself into two camps, notwithstanding the effect of Mr. John Redmond's fine speech in the House of Commons on the outbreak of war. Some six months ago the Nationalists passed a resolution against conscription, and now the Ulster Unionists and Unionist Alliance take up the challenge by saying they are in favour of it for all Ireland or the Province of Ulster. We are evidently going to have a fight again on the same old wretched lines. Compulsion will not pass for Ireland; the voluntary system of recruitment will be killed. The Nationalists will be blamed for the failure of an effort to impose the compulsory system by the Unionists, whilst the latter will be held responsible by the Nationalists for the death of the voluntary system, which had created three new Irish Divisions, as well as keeping the territorial regiments up to strength.

I have, therefore, tried to examine all the circumstances, and, from a perusal of the Dublin daily newspapers, I infer the respective policies of the two Irish parties as to recruiting are:—

(1) That the Nationalist Party is opposed to the principle of compulsory service, but supports the voluntary system of recruitment for the British Army.

(2) That the Ulster Unionists state that the voluntary system is a failure, and are equally opposed to compulsory service, unless compulsion is—

(a) Applied to the whole of Ireland; or

(b) Applied to the Province of Ulster, which includes the Nationalist minority.

(3) If compulsion is applied only to Ulster, the Unionist Protestant must join the Ulster Division containing the Covenanters, whilst the Ulster Nationalist must join one of the other two Irish Divisions or territorial regiments. If the Ulster Nationalist conscript is not allowed to join the Ulster Division, he must needs go outside it.

Is it not a miserable thing for all concerned that we cannot drop politics where the raising of men to fill up the wastage of Irish regiments is such an imperative demand? Does it not almost amount to this—that the Ulster Unionist will adopt the principle of compulsion for himself if he gets Home Rule thrown out? Notwithstanding Mr. Dillon's pronouncement, I infer that the same principle of compulsory service will be adopted by the Nationalist if Home Rule for all Ireland is put beyond doubt. Keeping in mind the great "need for men, and more men," and without going into the pros and cons of the compulsion controversy, I am forced to the conclusion that in this country of two rival camps, one a great deal larger than the other, a definite assurance must be given in exchange for compulsory service in Ireland, or that the whole matter should be dropped out of sight altogether. Ireland has produced, and can produce, the finest fighter in the world. England wants the men badly. She is not a philanthropist. She is a hard-grained shopkeeper, pressed by circumstances to drive the best bargain she can for Irish soldiers. If she wants them by means of compulsion, she must either:—

(1) Pass Home Rule for all Ireland at once, so as to put the matter beyond doubt, and also compulsory service, excluding therefrom all Unionists who can earn good money in making munitions in Belfast, and so help the common cause; or

(2) Rescind Home Rule, now on the Statute Book, conscript all Unionists, letting the Nationalist farmer make any money he can.

The first suggestion will, of course, bring in an enormous number of the best class of men, and provide for the making of munitions as well. I do not believe that the Government will adopt either one or other of my proposals, but I make them to show how important it is that we must risk the voluntary system of obtaining recruits whilst squabbling over compulsory service. I will suggest that the voluntary system of recruitment be worked in real earnest, and not in the "happy-go-lucky" style, as at present. Everybody should be put into compulsory service to assist voluntary recruiting by creating favourable opinion first and then getting recruits. Ireland has done well, and can do better. Let us take the matter seriously in hand, for the sake of our brave boys over the seas and for love of dear old Ireland.—Yours, etc.,

"LIBERATOR."

MUNICIPAL SALARIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I was greatly interested in last week's letters on this subject. Mr. Mangan (our City Accountant), as also Mr. Hanlon (Hon. Secretary of the Municipal Officers' Association) seem to direct all their influence in the Press to trying to extract more out of the ratepayers, instead of trying to point out how the enormous expenditure of our city rates could be curtailed, so as to help the poor ratepayers staggering under the load of enormous taxes and the great war.

The officers, including Mr. Mangan, receive liberal salaries from the ratepayers, amounting, as the Secretary of the Dublin Citizens' Association pointed out, to nearly £70,000 a year. Will Mr. Mangan explain to us ratepayers how so many departments are managed at nearly five times the cost of other mercantile associations, carrying on similar classes of business? How does he propose to economise? Can he manage his department and four chief clerks, or must he put one over the other three to manage them for him? Would it cause economy if there were only one manager of all the spending departments? This might give Mr. Mangan and other heads of departments more time to look after the details of their own, and save the expense of, say, three chief clerks altogether. Is it owing to mismanagement that the taxes have doubled in twenty-five years, and in addition the amount borrowed and spent has doubled in twenty-two years? As most of this money is lent by Government, should not they insist that the city they hold as security be not depreciated by pauperising ratepayers?—Yours, etc., R. G. PILKINGTON.

AMERICA AND THE AUSTRIAN NOTE.

DIPLOMATIC RUPTURE AVOIDED.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

WASHINGTON, FRIDAY.

Time will probably prove the hollowness of the Austrian professions, but for the present the change of attitude indicated in the latest Note has created a favourable impression among American officials. Doubtless further correspondence will be necessary, but the impression prevails that a diplomatic break has been avoided, at least for the present. A visit by Count Bernstorff to Mr. Lansing at the State Department has revived the rumours that Germany is seeking a settlement of the Lusitania controversy on terms acceptable to the United States.

AUSTRALIA AND THE WAR.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

MELBOURNE, SATURDAY.

Sir Alexander Peacock, the Premier of Victoria, referring to conscription, said he was afraid it would have to be adopted here because, as in England, eligible men were hanging back for insufficient reasons.

Mr. Hughes, the Commonwealth Premier, in an interview, referring to German domination in the metal market, said the outlook at the beginning of the year 1915 was extremely gloomy; now the industry in Australia was in a flourishing condition, and the prospects were brighter. Every German contract had been annulled, and the mining companies had been freed from the German octupus. Arrangements had been completed in several cases for treating copper ores locally, and the establishment of lead and zinc refineries were in contemplation.

WHEAT RISING.

Wheat prices at Taunton on Saturday recorded a shilling advance and those at Bedford three shillings advance.

SUNDAY ORCHESTRAL CONCERT.

The Sunday concerts at the Antient Concert Rooms recommenced yesterday. Amongst the well-chosen orchestral components of the programme Gillett's entr'acte for strings only, "Loin du bal," caught the fancy of the audience, particularly by its dancing measure and the brightness of its melody. It was rendered in a manner which brought forth all its charm. The "Sylvia" scherzettino (Leo Delibes) which followed it was also nicely performed. The "Merchant of Venice" suite (Rosse) was another item which commended itself to general taste, especially perhaps the Oriental march movement. The "Lohengrin" excerpts, with which the concert concluded, gave the impression of being rather wild and lacking in dignity. Harp solos by Miss Annie Fagan were keenly appreciated for the skilful execution which marked them, and provided that contrast with the orchestral body of the programme which the promoters obviously endeavour to provide at each concert. Miss Cissie Burke was the vocalist. Though her voice is good, she did not use it to the best advantage, and failed to give the best effect to her songs. She secured the encore call which is granted to every singer at these concerts, good, bad, or indifferent.

NAVAL AND MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

(FROM OUR MILITARY CORRESPONDENT IN IRELAND.)

The Army Council has decided to adopt a new method of promulgating decisions on questions of general interest in substitution for the present system of circular letters and memoranda. Such general decisions as are not notified through the medium of Army Orders will be promulgated in the form of Army Council Instructions, each bearing a serial number, a new series beginning with the first day of each month.

It has been decided that members of Queen Alexandra's Imperial Military Nursing Service Reserve and other trained and certificated nurses temporarily employed in military hospitals and hospital ships are, when selected to act in a higher rank than that of staff nurse, to be regarded as holding such rank substantively during the present war, subject to satisfactory conduct. This will enable them to retain their rank on transfer, and to count their service in the higher rank for increments of pay in that rank, and any satisfactory "acting" service which they have already given since the beginning of the war will be counted as service for increments of pay.

The following officers qualified at the First Lewis Rifle Course held at the Irish Command School of Musketry, Dublin, which terminated on the 17th December:—Captain J. B. Drought, 4th Royal Irish Rifles; Lieutenants I. M. Jones, 5th Leinster Regiment, and H. M. G. Gun Cunningham, 3rd Royal Dublin Fusiliers; Second Lieutenants E. J. Briggs-Gooderham, 3rd Royal Irish Regiment; E. M. Wolf, 4th Royal Irish Regiment; L. M. Bayly, 3rd Royal Irish Rifles; E. L. French, 5th Royal Irish Rifles; J. W. C. Colquhoun, 3rd Royal Irish Fusiliers; G. Watson, 4th Royal Irish Fusiliers; H. W. Baker, 3rd Connaught Rangers; D. C. O'Connell, 4th Connaught Rangers; H. Darley, 3rd Leinster Regiment; Wilson, 4th Leinster Regiment; W. F. Kidd, 3rd Royal Munster Fusiliers; J. P. Quinn, 6th Royal Munster Fusiliers, and H. J. Lepeton, 5th Royal Dublin Fusiliers.

An Irish Command Order directs that, where it is [illegible] to pay in cash or cheques for credit to Army Funds, such payments should invariably be made to the Cashier, Irish Command, Leitrim House, Lower Castle Yard, Dublin, and never to a paymaster.

THE DUBLIN CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION.

WAGES OF CORPORATION WORKMEN.

The Joint Consultative Council of the Citizens' Association met at 9 Dawson street, Dublin, on Friday night last.

There was a good attendance of the Executive and Corporate members. The agenda of the Corporation for its meeting to-day (Monday), together with the reports, which were mainly proposals to increase salaries and wages of municipal employes, were dealt with, and the views of the Council were declared and circulated.

Regarding Councillor P. T. Daly's motion re Corporation workmen, the following letter was directed, and issued to the Lord Mayor, Town Clerk, City Treasurer, and every member of the Municipal Council:—

Dublin Citizens' Association (Incorporated), 9 Dawson street, Dublin, January 1st, 1916.

To the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Councillors of Dublin.

Gentlemen,—I am directed by the Executive of this Association to direct your particular attention to the motion of Councillor P. T. Daly proposing to make the minimum wage of full-time workmen 25s. and their maximum 35s. per week of 50 hours, and to urge its rejection for the following reasons:—

(1) The workers of all grades in the City of Dublin and their dependents not working numbered 194,250 according to the Census of 1911.

(2) Corporation workers and their dependents are proportionately a comparative few, and they already enjoy constant employment, good wages, sick pay, paid holidays, and a pension, whilst the highest earnings of a skilled labourer in, say, the building trade, do not, when unfavourable weather conditions are reckoned with, normally average more than 25s. per week, and this without any guarantee of continuity of employment or even one of the other advantages given to Corporation labourers.

(3) Were this proposition carried into operation it would inevitably promote discontent amongst all classes of Dublin workers, attract from the land to the city an abnormal number of young men, who would in many cases naturally oust the comparatively unfit, with the result that the poor rate, already far too high, would be greatly increased, and that strikes and unbearable municipal rates would work the ruin of both employers and employed in Dublin.

My Executive, in conclusion, respectfully appeal to every unprejudiced and right-thinking Corporator to attend Monday's meeting, or any adjournment thereof, and, by voting solidly against the proposal in question, give the general trade and employment of Dublin a rational chance of normal expansion.—Yours faithfully,

Thomas O'Dwyer, Secretary.

The Irish Times.

MONDAY, JANUARY 3, 1916.

Sir Robert Borden, Prime Minister of Canada, in a New Year message to the people of that country, refers to the war, and says that all the powers of the country are consecrated to the great task which concerns the liberties of the world and the destinies of all its nations. Canada's authorised force for active service had been increased from a quarter to half a million of men. This showed Canada's unflinching resolve to crown the justice of their cause with victory and an abiding peace.

In an expression of opinion which he has given to a Paris newspaper as to the future of the war, Lord Derby says that the Allied Governments and peoples have confidence in each other, and their soldiers and sailors are fighting with valour. This happy combination of confidence and courage was a certain sign that they would carry off the victory.

The continuation of Sir John French's list of mentions appears on pages 10 and 11.

On Friday the Prime Minister and the Minister of Munitions received a deputation of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, who attended in connection with the Munitions Amendment Bill. Mr. Asquith, in a speech on the dilution of labour in munitions works, asked the Society to accept the principle during the continuance of the war, and he would be prepared to tell the Minister of Munitions to insert certain safeguards in the Amending Bill. The deputation accepted on behalf of its society the scheme of dilution provided that the Government pledged themselves to incorporate in the bill the power to enforce rates and conditions of labour in controlled establishments.

The Porteynon lifeboat went out on Saturday opposite Swansea to the relief of a steamer. In the heavy sea the lifeboat was capsized, and the thirteen occupants were thrown into the water. All except one succeeded in getting back to the boat. Shortly afterwards she was again capsized, and two more of the crew lost their lives. The other ten drifted into the Mumbles in the afternoon in an exhausted condition.

A building at Babington Showground, Birkenhead, collapsed on Saturday, causing the death of one soldier and injuries to fourteen others, two of whom are in a dangerous condition.

A special article is published in another column dealing with the proposed reduction in the strength of the Dublin Metropolitan Police, especially in the mounted section, and mentioning important local events during the past thirty years in which the mounted police of Dublin took a prominent part.

A violent storm blew over Dublin and the greater part of Ireland on Saturday. In some places it was accompanied by heavy rains, which caused rivers to overflow and flood low-lying lands. Many farm houses along the Shannon and other rivers are flooded, and farm produce has suffered. In Dublin some of the steamers were unable to sail until the gale had moderated, and passengers who crossed from England and Scotland during the gale reported a very bad passage. In the County Cork trains were held up by the gale, and one passenger train was struck by a falling tree. All shipping on the Lower Shannon was suspended while the gale lasted. The storm was also felt in England, and in Liverpool it reached a velocity of 100 miles an hour.

It is reported in Belfast that there has been a large increase in the number of young male passengers between English and Scottish ports and Belfast. Some are Irishmen, and many are Englishmen. It is believed that they are leaving England because they think that they will be able to escape compulsory military service in Ireland.

Customs and Excise duties in Belfast last year were just over four and a quarter millions, a decrease of over £66,000 on the previous year.

The Public Trustee.

On the occasion of the opening of the handsome new premises of the Public Trustee in Kingsway, London, a little pamphlet has been issued by the Department giving an account of its remarkable growth. As is usual in England where new ideas are concerned, a long time had to elapse before the project became an accomplished fact. In India there has been an Official Trustee since 1843. New Zealand set up a Public Trustee as a Department of the State so long ago as 1872, and it was as the result of observing the working of the system in that Colony that the late Sir Howard Vincent introduced in 1886 the first Public Trustee Bill "to meet the difficulty which both public bodies and private individuals frequently experience in finding suitable trustees." It met with the usual fate of private members' Bills, but, nevertheless, attracted a good deal of support among members of Parliament and the general public. Other Bills were brought in and shared the same fate, but at last, in 1895, a Select Committee was set up under the presidency of Earl Loreburn to enquire into the administration of private trusts. This Committee reported that "large sums of money are annually misappropriated by private trustees, and that much loss and consequent suffering are caused by this malversation." It recommended that a system should be established by which private trusts could be administered by, or under the control of, some official authority. Even then another ten years had to elapse before the Government took up the matter. It was not till December, 1906, that Lord Loreburn, as Lord Chancellor, introduced a Bill in the House of Lords which was successfully piloted through the House of Commons by the then Attorney-General, Sir Lawson Walton, "assisted greatly," it is interesting to note, "by Sir Edward Carson, who, with much public spirit, and despite opposition, had always supported the measure." The Bill became law in 1907, and Mr. C. J. Stewart was appointed the first Public Trustee.

On New Year's Day, 1908, Mr. Stewart opened his modest offices in Clement's Inn, with a staff of five clerks and a messenger. By the end of the first year he had accepted 325 active trusts, valued at £2,100,000; while 253 intending testators had notified the Department that they had nominated the Public Trustee as executor to their wills, involving a total estimated value of £17,000,000. In succeeding years the business of the Department increased by leaps and bounds. The six officials of eight years ago have been increased to over 500; and the five rooms at Clement's Inn are now represented by the great palace in Kingsway, with hundreds of apartments and three passenger lifts. The Department has now accepted 8,600 trusts, valued at £71,000,000, and has "in sight," through the notification of intending investors, some 5,000 more, with an aggregate value of £75,000,000. A heavy strain has been thrown upon the Department by the war, in which, by the way, 40 per cent. of the male officials are serving. Under the Trading with the Enemy regulations the property of enemy aliens, to the value of £110,000,000, has been registered with the Public Trustee, while the ordinary business has also been greatly increased. As many trusts have been accepted in the last seventeen months as would ordinarily arise in two and a half years, and the deceased estates in the same period have nearly doubled in number. There has, of course, been a corresponding growth in the amount of fees received. Though very moderate in amount, they now come to £95,000 a year, as compared with £4,460 in the first year. The initial deficit incurred in setting up the Department has long ago been paid off, and a surplus of some £30,000 has now been accumulated. This forms a substantial buttress to the State guarantee under which the Department works.

Here is an astonishing record of rapid and substantial progress, and it suggests certain conclusions. We shall not again dwell upon the curious anomaly that the advantages of employing the Public Trustee are confined to the inhabitants of England and Wales, since the Act establishing the Department did not extend to Ireland and Scotland. On this occasion we shall draw attention to the proof which its success seems to indicate that there is a very large body of persons, possessed of a certain amount of property, who are ready to disclose their affairs to a State official for the sake of the security that they believe themselves to derive from the relationship. Surely here is a hint to the Chancellor of the Exchequer which he should not disregard? Hitherto in financing the war expenditure he has relied too much upon the great financial institutions, and has not made any very serious attempt to get at the savings of the humbler capitalists. In the revenue returns for the nine months ended December 31st we read with almost a shock that the amount of money raised by Treasury bills during the period was no less than 439 millions sterling, while the amount redeemed was only 137 millions. Borrowing by means of Treasury bills is, no doubt, a very convenient process, but it is open to two objections. In the first place, it is merely a postponement of the evil day, for the bills have to be paid off in six months, nine months, or twelve months, as the case may be; and, secondly, it only appeals to the comparatively wealthy investor. What is wanted is a plan by which all classes, from the highest to the lowest, may be induced to lend their spare cash to the Exchequer either permanently (as in the case of the purchaser of Consols) or for a period of several years (as in the case of the purchaser of War Loan or Exchequer bills). When the first War Loan was in preparation we urged these considerations upon the Government, but without effect. Since then there have been some ingenious, but not very successful, attempts to induce the working classes to save. It is now proposed to issue Exchequer Bonds in amounts as little as £5. So far as it goes, the proposal is a good one, but we fear that it will not by itself bring in much money. The Government must profit by the experience of the insurance and building societies, the slate clubs, and the peripatetic savings banks, and bring the facilities for investment to the very doors of the people if it wishes to get them to save their money and lend it to the State.

Russia's Offensive.

After a prolonged period of passivity there has reappeared on the main Russian front movement on a large scale. The revival of activity happily illustrates Mr Churchill's just description of the war as a war of tendencies rather than a war of incidents. Since the German offensive against the Russians in the north came to an end in the early autumn there has been, superficially, no change in the situation. But the stagnation was only apparent. All the time there have operated ceaselessly two factors—one, that the enemy, having reached the height of their effort, were condemned, if not to immediate decline, at least to the necessity of husbanding their resources; the other, that the Russians, having stemmed the Austro-German effort at its height, were free to develop their own scarcely tapped resources. Earlier than we had a right to expect, the results of the interplay of these factors become manifest. The initiative is resumed not by the enemy, but by the Russians. The Austro-German offensive came to an end in the north in front of Dwinsk. The Russian counter-offensive has begun in the south, on the front in Eastern Galicia and south to the Rumanian frontier. Much obscurity enwraps these operations, about which the Russian Headquarters Staff, as is its custom at the outset of any important movement, has been extremely reticent. The first account of the Russian offensive came through Vienna, which, in its latest communiqué, reports the fighting to be continuing "with undiminished violence." We remain uninformed of the character and purpose of the Russian movement. One passage in the Austrian report is significant. It speaks of intense and sustained activity by the Russian artillery, whose preparation for the infantry assault lasted from noon until night. The fact is eloquent of the improvement in the Russian supply of munitions, the lack of which was the whole cause of the melancholy series of reverses which befell the Russian arms last year. It would be rash to assume, however, that this improvement, and the similar improvement in the supply of rifles and small arm ammunition which is enabling Russia to equip a vast new Army, are already sufficient to justify a general offensive. Our Allies can be sure of a more overwhelming superiority in the spring, when the weather also will be more favourable to major operations; though the weather is a factor which we may over-rate, since the Russian Army is better fitted than any other European Army for winter campaigning, and it was in the depths of last mid-winter that it carried the crests of the Carpathians. On the whole, however, we shall probably be justified in assuming that the present offensive is an operation with a limited purpose. We may hazard the guess that this purpose is not unconnected with the situation in the Balkans. Evidence is accumulating that the Austro-Germans and Bulgarians in the Balkans anticipate an attack in some form from the north. The natural preliminary to Russian intervention in the Balkans would be the clearance of the enemy from the immediate neighbourhood of the northern Rumanian frontier, above which the present fighting is taking place. This would equally be desirable whether the Russian forces are intended to march through Rumania with the consent of the Government of that country, or whether they hope to carry the Rumanian Army with them. Reports have lately been persistent that an understanding has been reached between Russia and Rumania. If the cession to Rumania of Russian Bessarabia is contemplated, the Russian offensive would be sufficiently explained by a desire to hand over this territory intact and free of the enemy. Our Allies' offensive, which appears to be developing very favourably, may be the herald of sweeping changes in the eastern situation.

The Persia.

The P. and O. liner Persia was sunk in the Mediterranean on Thursday. We fear that it is now too late to hope for news that might lessen the gravity of the first announcement, which said that most of the passengers and crew were lost. The loss of life has been heavy, indeed. More than five hundred persons were on board at the time of her destruction, and of these not 160 have been saved. The liner was sunk by torpedo attack, and went down so quickly that only four boats could be got clear. Perhaps, as in the case of the Lusitania, it was "expected" by the submarine commander that the vessel would not sink as quickly as she did. We suppose that the Austrian Government will hit on some such excuse. It will have to give some explanation to the United States if, as we may assume, it was an Austrian submarine—or at least a submarine flying the Austrian flag—that committed this new outrage upon the principles of humanity. Only a day or two ago Austria informed the United States that she concurred in the principle that private vessels, even when of enemy ownership, should not be sunk until the safety of every one on board was assured. It made an exception of ships that offered resistance or sought to escape. This principle, acknowledged in so many words by Austria, is precisely that contained in the pledge given by Count Bernstorff on behalf of Germany last September. The German Admiralty's comment on Count Bernstorff's pledge was the sinking, without notice, a few days later, of the liner Hesperian. After that incident drastic changes were made in the personnel of the German Admiralty. Perhaps, we may now have it suggested that the Austrian Admiralty, similarly, has taken its own course, apart from the Government. That would not lessen the responsibility of the Government. It must answer to the United States not only for the cruel breach of the principles of humanity and sea law, which President Wilson champions, but also for the attack on the lives of American passengers. The relief with which the plausible Austrian reply to the Ancona Note was received in Washington last week is again disturbed.

Mr. Henry James, O.M.

The Order of Merit is not restricted to British subjects, nor confined to men of letters or learning. Nevertheless, the public has always regarded with the greatest pleasure those instances of its conferring in which the recipients have been men of distinction in art, literature, or science, and, at the same time, subjects of the King who awards the honour. For these there is no other decoration quite appropriate: for men of note in military and other official service, on the other hand, there are many recognised honours in the gift of the King. The relative worth of the Order of Merit is fixed by the fact that such a man as Earl Kitchener is proud to receive it, after he has exhausted the list of other marks of honour. Its special character was defined in the public mind by the fact that the first recipient was George Meredith. "O.M." in his case, Meredith laughingly said, meant "old man." The latest recipient of the Order reminds us of the first in more respects than that of being an old man. The literary work of Mr. Henry James is not unlike that of Meredith. His style, from the point of view of readers who like books to be easy reading, is worse—that is to say, it is even more involved and rhapsodic. Probably it is better known through the medium of parodies in Punch than in the original. It lends itself to caricature. One recalls the picture of a man bidding a long farewell to his family before embarking on a sentence of Mr. Henry James's. Such pleasantries apart, it need hardly be remarked that Mr. Henry James has something distinctive to say through the medium of his peculiar style, and that his eminence in literature has been acknowledged for at least the period of a generation. He might well have been deemed a worthy recipient of the Order of Merit before last year, and there was nothing in the fact of his American nationality to prevent the award. It is a happy thing, nevertheless, that we may now claim the new "O.M." as a British subject. His wish to become one did honour to himself and to his adopted country.

A GALLANT YEOMAN.

HELPS TO SAVE A TRANSPORT.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

It has now become known that when the transport Merchant conveying the Lincolnshire Yeomanry was attacked by a German submarine in the Mediterranean on November 3rd a Horncastle trooper displayed great gallantry and was responsible for the ship reaching safety. A shell swept part of the bridge away, taking with it the steersman, and Trooper Edwin Thompson immediately rushed forward and took charge of the wheel, although without previous experience. The captain, however, made arm signals as to which way the wheel was to be turned during the shelling, which lasted over an hour.

Prior to the war Thompson was a groom. His parents, who reside at Horncastle, have received a letter from his commanding officer, in which he says—"Your son did a great deal towards saving all our lives. It was a performance that anyone might be proud of."

CABINET AND COMPULSION.

URGENT WHIPS.

The following whip was issued on Saturday to members of the House of Commons:—

> On Wednesday, 5th January, the Prime Minister will introduce a bill dealing with military service. An important debate will follow, and a division may be taken. Your attendance at 2.45 is urgently requested.

Sir John Lonsdale has issued a whip to the Irish Unionist Party for next Tuesday.

TEMPORARY COMMISSIONS IN THE ARMY.

The Press Bureau announces that, for the present, except under exceptional circumstances, temporary commissions in the Regular Army, commissions in the Special Reserve of Officers, and commissions in the Territorial Force (cavalry, yeomanry, and infantry) will only be given on the recommendation of a commanding officer, and, in the case of the Territorial Force, the County Association concerned, to men who have completed a recruit's course or its equivalent, preference being given to men who have served with an Expeditionary Force. The same principles apply to other arms where practicable.

ESCAPING COMPULSION.

A RUSH TO IRELAND.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

BELFAST, SATURDAY.

Since the Cabinet decision to compel all unmarried men to join the Colours became known there has been a notable increase in the number of passengers, particularly young men, arriving in Belfast from English and Scotch ports. The majority of these subsequently proceed by the Great Northern Railway to towns in the Midlands and West of Ireland. From their appearance and accent it is evident that a great many of these young men are Irish who are returning home to escape the compulsory attestation which it is understood the Government intend to enforce in connection with the Derby scheme. They are evidently of the impression that Ireland will escape from compulsion, and they believe, no doubt, that they will be safer at home. Amongst the arrivals there are also noticeable not a few who were undoubtedly Englishmen, who are also imbued with the idea that Ireland is to be exempt and that it will prove for them a place of refuge. Unless Ireland is included in the scheme for compulsion, or some drastic measures are taken to prevent this migration, the compulsory plans of the Government may be rendered of little effect. Irishmen in Great Britain will return home, while some English "shirkers" may become impressed with the desirability of a temporary residence in Ireland.

Mr. A. E. Seymour, a well-known Conservative Midland political agent, died on Saturday from pneumonia in Loughborough Hospital, aged 46.

DUBLIN AND SOUTH-EASTERN RAILWAY.

The damaged line between Greystones and Newcastle, on the Dublin and South-Eastern Railway, has been repaired, and passengers travelled over it on Sunday. Passenger and goods trains will run to-day according to the times published on 15th December last.

PRICE OF BREAD IN DUBLIN.

Attention is directed to the announcement in another column from the Dublin Master Bakers' Committee. They have given notice that on and from to-day the price of the 2lb. loaf in Dublin will be 4½d.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

153 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

The New Year has opened with the announcement of a disaster. At first it was thought that the loss of the Persia might be due to an accident, as the company's statement was merely that the vessel had been sunk, but shortly afterwards it was stated that she had been torpedoed. It is learned that the survivors from the Persia who have arrived at Alexandria constitute the whole of the saved. Only four boats are known to have got away, and, although the full capacity of each boat is sixty, an average of forty would, in the circumstances, be about what might be expected. It would appear that nearly 400 innocent persons have lost their lives through the latest example of German or Austrian frightfulness.

Two American citizens are believed to have been on board, including a United States Consul, and the incident can hardly fail to have some bearing upon the Ancona and Lusitania controversies, since President Wilson originally based his intervention rather as a champion of humanity in general than as head of the United States. The circumstances, so far as they are known, indicate that, as in the case of the Ancona, the commander of the hostile submarine took no pains to warn the Persia or to give the people on board of her a reasonable time to escape.

Among the passengers believed to have been on board was Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, one of the most popular and unassuming of the Peers. In his younger days he was a notable athlete. Then he became a great traveller, and latterly had been specially identified with the motoring industry. He was the founder and editor of The Car, and was always ready to assist any cause in which motorists were interested. I doubt if there is a member of the nobility who has a larger number of friends in all conditions of life, from Princes to mechanics, all of whom are hoping that he will be among the survivors.

Some surprise has been expressed at the large supply of submarines still possessed by the Germans, in spite of the heavy losses in the North Sea and other British waters. But it must be remembered that, directly the war began, the German Navy yards started building under-water boats as fast as they could, so that the waste of war has probably by this time nearly been replaced. The methods which were found so successful in dealing with the submarine menace round our coasts have apparently not been quite so successful up to now in the Mediterranean. Still the fact that the "U" pirates have chiefly directed their attacks against merchant vessels, and have done very little damage to the warships and transports of the Allies, suggests that they have a wholesome fear of the Navy and its devices. It is suggested to-day that the Japanese might usefully lend a hand in the Mediterranean by sending a fleet of light cruisers and boats to assist in harrying the enemy submarines.

The unfortunate mistake by which only Liberal members received the official whip for the debate in which Sir John Simon launched his thunderbolt against The Times has not been repeated on the present occasion. All members of the House of Commons have been urgently requested to attend at Westminster on Wednesday, when the Prime Minister is to introduce a Bill dealing with military service. It will be observed that there is no mention of compulsion in the notice, but no one doubts what the nature of the Bill will be, in view of the statement that "an important debate will follow, and a division may be taken."

Much will depend upon the decisions previously reached by individual Ministers. If Sir John Simon should persist in resigning, still more if he should be accompanied by Mr. McKenna and Mr. Runciman, the discussion will be largely conducted by the Front Benches, and may lead to interesting, and even painful, disclosures. But, if Mr. Asquith, as I still think probable, should succeed in removing the apprehensions of the Chancellor of the Exchequer and the President of the Board of Trade, the debate will take a different turn, and after the opening speeches will be chiefly confined to the benches below the gangway.

The attitude of the Nationalist Party continues to excite curiosity. They, doubtless, realise the injury that would be done to their political aspirations if an invidious distinction had to be drawn between different parts of the United Kingdom, and for that reason, through the mouth of Mr. Redmond, they endeavoured to frighten the Government from introducing compulsion in any form. But now the spectre is upon them, and the question is what line they will take in the debate. Some of them are threatening to join with the recalcitrant Liberals in opposing the whole scheme. But I fancy that, when the terms of the Bill are revealed, it will be found that the Prime Minister has constructed a golden bridge along which Mr. Redmond will be enabled to make a more or less graceful retreat.

For a long time there has been an almost entire cessation of postal communication with Russia. It is supposed that this was to prevent news of the concentration in the south from leaking out. It is now known that heavy fighting is proceeding along the southern half of the long Russian front. According to the latest official reports from Petrograd, it seems to be going favourably for our Allies. It does not yet appear what the exact object of the struggle is. One theory is that the Russians began it with a view to clearing the northern frontier of Rumania from the enemy as a preliminary to marching through that country to attack the Bulgarians. Others think, however, that the Russian attack is merely intended to prevent the Austrians from "digging themselves in," and preparing to meet the great advance of the new Russian Armies in the spring.

The spring will see Professor W. B. Bottomley's discovery of bacterised peat as an improved substitute for ordinary manures subjected to a series of tests under Government direction in different parts of the United Kingdom. The Board of Agriculture and Fisheries have announced their intention of carrying out extensive experiments with humogen, as the new fertiliser is called, at Rothampstead. The Irish Board of Agriculture have specified certain crops with which they intend to experiment. These include oats, meadow hay, and potatoes. The Scottish Board of Agriculture will also submit bacterised peat to a comprehensive test. Then the National Committee formed under the chairmanship of the Duke of Teck to bring the discovery into more general use will conduct experiments in different areas with a view to placing waste land under profitable cultivation.

Underlying the inevitable bombast in the Kaiser's New Year message to his troops there seems to be a note of hesitation, almost of despair, which rather tends to confirm the serious reports of his illness that are again current. A really confident Monarch would not dwell upon the weight of the enemy's masses or their alleged campaign of calumny, still less upon the threatened starvation of his own people. The message breathes a very much more chastened spirit than that which possessed him a year ago, when he was still talking boastfully of breaking through to Calais. The same feeling of uncertainty pervades his letter to the Chief of the Imperial General Staff. After recapitulating the "great military successes" of 1915, he distinctly qualifies his enthusiasm by the admission that "they can only be fully appreciated by later historical writers." Does this signify an uneasy feeling that, after all, these wonderful triumphs may turn out to be, as Punch's cartoonist calls them, only "Dead Sea Fruit"?

SIR ROBERT BORDEN'S NEW YEAR MESSAGE.

CANADIAN FORCES TO BE INCREASED.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

OTTAWA, FRIDAY.

Sir Robert Borden, Prime Minister, has issued the following New Year message to the people of Canada:—

More than twelve months ago our Empire consecrated all its powers and its supreme endeavours to the great purpose which concerns the liberties of the world and the destinies of all its nations.

In the dawn of another year our hearts are more resolute than ever to accomplish that task, however formidable it may prove. By the greatness of the need, our future efforts must be measured. Nowhere is the Canadian spirit more firm and unwavering than among the men who hold the trenches, and those who will shortly stand by their side. Nowhere is it more undaunted than in the hospitals and convalescent homes. Already we have learned the full meaning of sacrifice. To all Canadian homes that have been saddened, to all Canadian hearts that have been stricken by the tragedy of this war, we pray that a Divine blessing may bring consolation and healing. Much has had to be learned during the past fifteen months, because we were not prepared for this war.

The strongest assurance of ultimate victory lies in the fact that we were not rushed. In learning that hard lesson those who forced this war upon us may be assured by the traditions of our past that the lesson will be thoroughly learned to the end that there shall be an enduring peace. The very character and greatness of the ideals for which we are fighting forbid us to pause until their triumph is fully assured.

The Canadian forces at the front have, indeed, fought a good fight, and have crowned the name of Canada with undying laurels. To them and to all overseas forces now under arms and awaiting the opportunity to do their part, we bid God speed in the sure faith they will never fail in their duty. Yesterday the authorised forces of Canada numbered 250,000, and the number of enlisted was rapidly approaching that limit. To-day, the first day of the new year, our authorised force is 500,000. This announcement is made in token of Canada's unflinching resolve to crown the justice of our cause with victory and an abiding peace.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

OTTAWA, FRIDAY.

Sir Robert Borden's New Year Message to-night announces that the Canadian forces are to be increased from a quarter to half a million men. The authorised force at present is 250,000. The number of recruits enlisted for overseas service up to December 15th total 212,690.

PARCELS FOR PRISONERS OF WAR.

The Press Bureau last night issued the following:—

The Foreign Office forwards the following for publication:—

The Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs is informed by the United States Ambassador that, in reply to inquiries made by the Ambassador at Berlin as to the prohibition of the receipt by prisoners of war interned in Germany of collective parcels of foodstuffs, to which reference has recently been made in the Press, His Excellency has been informed that the measure in question does not apply to British prisoners, and that the German Government do not propose to extend its operation to the latter unless it is found in practice that the privilege is abused.

P. AND O. LINER SUNK

ON VOYAGE TO BOMBAY.

ONLY FOUR BOATS ESCAPE.

390 LIVES LOST.

ARRIVAL OF 158 SURVIVORS AT ALEXANDRIA.

The P. and O. liner Persia was torpedoed without warning on December 30th while on a voyage from London to Bombay. Most of the passengers and crew were lost. 158 survivors have been landed at Alexandria.

Amongst the passengers was Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, who was well-known in Ireland, and whose name does not so far appear in the list of the saved. 160 were rescued out of 550 on board, but it is impossible to obtain exact figures.

There is a possibility of other survivors being landed, as Colonel Bigham, in a telegram from Alexandria, states that five or six boats were lowered to port, and only four of these are yet accounted for.

The outrage has been received with astonishment in America. Coming as it does at the very time when the adjustment of the Ancona affair seemed close at hand, it has created a most unpleasant impression, and it is compared to the sinking of the Arabic at the moment when President Wilson was negotiating with the German Government on the Lusitania massacre.

The Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company's steamer Persia, London for Bombay, was sunk at 1 p.m. on December 30th.

Most of the passengers and crew were lost. Four boats got clear.

To this, statements made by the P. and O. Company add that the ship was torpedoed (this on the authority of the Admiralty); that the survivors were taken from the four boats by a vessel bound for Alexandria, and that the mail was a heavy one, but that there was absolutely no war material on board.

The last direct information the company received regarding the ship was on December 28th—two days after she left Marseilles.

P. AND O. OFFICIAL STATEMENTS.

The P. and O. Company regret to state that information has been received from the Admiralty that the Persia, which left London on December 18th, and Marseilles on the 26th, carrying His Majesty's mails for Bombay, has been sunk off Crete, and that only four boats got away from the ship.

These boats were picked up by a steamer bound for Alexandria, and the vessel is expected there this (Saturday) evening.

The names of those saved have not, so far, been received, but they will be published as soon as possible.

It is feared that the loss of life amongst passengers and crew has been heavy.

The company's Marseilles and Malta agents have been asked to telegraph the names of any passengers who may have embarked there.

TORPEDOED WITHOUT WARNING.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIALS.)

CAIRO, SUNDAY.

The P. and O. liner Persia was torpedoed without warning, and sank in a few minutes.

Among the survivors who have arrived at Alexandria is the chief officer of the liner.

2.35 P.M.

The survivors of the Persia, who arrived at Alexandria last night, were the chief officer, the second officer, seven engineers, 27 seamen, 63 Lascars, and 59 passengers, the last including Colonel Bigham and Mr. Grant, an American, acting as agent in Calcutta of the Vacuum Oil Company.

Mr. M'Neely, the American Consul at Aden, was drowned.

Another American named Rose landed at Gibraltar.

3.35 P.M.

The survivors of the Persia include fifteen ladies, ten military officers, and eight foreigners.

The Persia was struck amidships on the port side at 1.10 p.m., and five minutes later she had completely disappeared. It was in fact a miracle that anyone was saved at all.

There was no panic, and the four boats that were launched were lowered with the greatest promptitude.

It is understood that 160 have been saved, out of about 550 on board, but hitherto it has been impossible to obtain exact figures.

The captain was drowned. He was last seen swimming in the water after the liner had taken her final plunge.

TELEGRAM FROM LORD MERSEY'S SON.

Lord Inchcape, the Chairman of the P. and O. Company, received the following telegram last night from Colonel the Hon. C. Bigham from Alexandria, who was a passenger by the Persia:—

The sinking of the P. and O. Persia was caused by a torpedo, which struck the ship on the port bow on the 30th December at 1.5 p.m., when she was about 40 miles to the southward of the east end of Crete. No previous warning was given, neither was there any attempt at assistance. Within five minutes of being torpedoed the ship had sunk, and it was impossible to lower the starboard boats owing to the heavy list. Five or six boats, however, were able to be lowered to port. I did not see this myself as I was washed overboard when a boat capsized. The conduct of the passengers and crew was splendid. There was no struggling, nor was there any panic. Four of the boats after having been thirty hours at sea were picked up by one of His Majesty's ships, and those in them received the ~~greatest~~ kindness and attention from the captain and officers. Search is being made for the remaining boats in the neighbourhood of the disaster. One hundred and fifty-eight persons have been landed at Alexandria out of a total of 350. The saved include 59 passengers, of whom 17 are women and two children.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

WASHINGTON, SUNDAY.

The American Consul at Alexandria reports that Mr. M'Neely, American Consul at Aden, who was a passenger on the Persia, is among those lost. He was last seen in the water after the vessel sank. Mr. Grant, another American proceeding to India, was saved. The Consul adds that no submarine was seen by the survivors, but one of the Persia's officers saw the wake of the torpedo which struck the ship. The Persia sank in five minutes.

ARRIVAL OF SURVIVORS AT ALEXANDRIA.

Lloyds report 153 survivors from the P. and O. steamer Persia have arrived at Alexandria. These consist of 59 passengers (of whom 17 are women), 35 men of the crew, and 59 Lascars.

FIRM ACTION AT SALONIKA.

EXPULSION OF ENEMY CONSULS.

GREEK PROTEST.

COMMOTION IN ATHENS.

After the German air raid on Salonika, the Franco-British commanders arrested all the enemy Consuls, and placed them on a French warship. They were afterwards transferred to a steamer, which left for an unknown destination. The arrests caused a great commotion in Athens. The Greek Government lodged a formal protest at Salonika.

This newly-created delicate situation is seriously pre-occupying Greek official circles, as they are uneasy as to the next move of the Central Powers.

General Mackensen has reached Sofia on a mission to the Bulgarians, with the object of inducing them to join in the invasion of Greece.

King Peter of Serbia has arrived at Salonika with some of his Ministers.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

SALONIKA, DEC. 30 (RECEIVED JAN. 2).

The enemy air raid to-day was regarded by the Allies as a violation of Greek territory, justifying stricter restrictive measures against espionage. Consequently the Austrian, Bulgarian, German, and Turkish Consulates were surrounded to-day, and the Consuls, with the exception of the Bulgarian, were arrested and embarked on a steamer.

The Bulgarian Consul evaded arrest, but is expected to fall into the hands of our authorities very shortly. Extensive measures are being taken to-night with a view to the arrest of a number of other suspected characters. The Greek Government has protested against the arrests.

PARIS, SATURDAY.

A telegram from Athens states that the German, Austrian, Turkish, and Bulgarian Consuls-General were embarked on a French battleship.

SUNDAY.

The special correspondent of the Echo de Paris at Salonika telegraphs, under yesterday's date:—

All the expelled persons have been transferred from the battleship Patrie to a steamer, which left immediately for an unknown destination.

The Prefect of Salonika has handed a protest against their expulsion to General Sarrail and General Sir Bryan Mahon.

ATHENS, DEC. 31.

The bombing of Salonika and the arrest of the enemy Consuls there have caused a commotion in Athens, and is regarded by the man in the street here as the opening of hostilities on Greek territory. The arrests are looked upon as one of the numerous anomalies brought about by the situation, against which a protest had already been raised, before representations were made by the Central Powers.

The action taken by the Allied Generals show that they have absolute confidence in their strength.

From all available information it seems highly improbable that General Mackensen will succeed at Sofia in persuading the Bulgars to extend their operations to Greek territory.

The Interventionist Press strongly condemns the Allies' action, though it abstained from comment regarding German doings in Persia and the sinking of the Ancona, when 25 Greeks perished, and the capture of British officials travelling on a Greek steamer.

At a Cabinet Council this evening M. Skouloudis communicated to his colleagues the form of protest made collectively by the German, Austrian, Turkish, and Bulgarian Ministers, with regard to the arrest of the Consuls of those States at Salonika, and also the reply to the Greek protest already addressed to the Entente. Ministers discussed at great length events at Salonika, and the newly-created delicate situation, which is seriously preoccupying official circles, as they are uneasy as to the next move of the Central Powers. The Greek protest dwells upon the fact that even the Government was not advised of the drastic measure by the Entente.

The inspired evening Press takes the Entente severely to task.

SUNDAY.

Greece, to mark the absoluteness of her political neutrality, has addressed a protest to the German Government, owing to a German aeroplane having flown over Greek territory, and dropped a bomb, by which a shepherd was killed.

GERMANS IN MONASTIR.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

ATHENS, FRIDAY.

Trustworthy advice has been received that one German battalion has reached Monastir, and an Austrian mountain battery is expected. A French aeroplane made a reconnaissance over Monastir, in consequence of which machine guns have been placed on the highest buildings.

Marshal von Mackensen, with his staff, arrived in Sofia yesterday, to confer with the Bulgarian Generals.

BRIDGING THE SAVE.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

AMSTERDAM, SUNDAY.

A Vienna telegram states that on December 30 a bridge across the River Save, near Belgrade, was opened, and direct railway traffic between the Central Powers and Bulgaria and Turkey was re-established. The Archduke Frederick was present, and afterwards visited Belgrade, where normal life is stated to have been restored. The majority of the inhabitants are said to have returned. Subsequently the Archduke visited the King of Bulgaria at Semendria.

MONTENEGRIN REPORT.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

PARIS, SATURDAY.

The Montenegrin communiqué, issued on December 30, says:—

On the northern front there have been artillery duels and infantry fighting. On the eastern front, before Koraz, there was an artillery combat. In the region of Rozai we attacked the enemy, and forced them to retire in the direction of the town. Our troops occupied Vloka. Toward Rogova we repulsed the enemy, inflicting severe losses. We also took some horses and munitions. In the direction of Plava the Austrians occupied Bogicevitch, where we only had a very small force. On the western front there was a very violent artillery duel. In the Bocche di Cattaro zone there were advance guard engagements, in which the enemy lost heavily.

SEIZURE OF CASTELLORIZO.

(FROM MR. G. J. STEVENS, SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT OF THE PRESS ASSOCIATION AND "DAILY TELEGRAPH.")

ATHENS, THURSDAY.

The Island of Castellorizo was occupied by French troops three days ago. A cruiser, on approaching the island, was not allowed to enter the port, being told that on the same morning five hundred marines had landed and taken possession of the island.

Castellorizo is one of three islands occupied by Greece during the Balkan wars which the London Award destined to be returned to Turkey. Its proximity to the mainland, almost at a stonethrow's distance, renders its possession a valuable strategic point for operations on the coast of Asia Minor. Hence the reports that the intention, previously published, of the Allies to create another front in Asia Minor is now said to be matured, and its execution reported as imminent.

It is stated that the Greek Government lodged a formal protest against the occupation of the island. On the other hand, Greece received during the recent negotiations a formal assurance from the Entente Powers in exchange for the facilities demanded that all Greek territory then occupied, or that may be occupied in future, will be returned to Greece at the end of the war, with an indemnity for any damage done.

WESTERN FIELD OF WAR.

MINING ACTIVITY.

BOMBARDMENT OF GERMAN TRENCHES.

Both Sir Douglas Haig and General Joffre report mining activity at several points. Their despatches also indicate that the artillery bombardment of the German trenches is becoming more pronounced, especially along the French portion of the line. The Germans bombarded Nancy from a long range, doing very little material damage.

The Germans report the capture of a French trench south of Hartmannsweilerkopf.

BRITISH DESPATCH.

PRESS BUREAU, 10.50 P.M.

BRITISH GENERAL HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, SUNDAY, 9.12 P.M.

This morning the enemy sprung a mine in front of our trenches east of Cuinchy, but did not attempt to occupy the crater.

During the afternoon we exploded three mines near La Boisselle. Our artillery and trench mortars co-operated.

Our artillery also bombarded hostile trenches north of Fromelles and east of Ypres. To the former bombardment the enemy replied vigorously without causing any damage.

On the other portions of our front normal artillery activity only.

FRENCH REPORTS.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIALS.)

PARIS, SATURDAY.

This afternoon's official communiqué says:—

In Artois several German patrols were dispersed during the night by our fire, south of Vailly.

There was an intermittent cannonade between the Somme and the Oise and in the Woevre, in the sector of Flirey.

There is no other event to report on the remainder of the front.

11 P.M.

Between the Avre and the Oise our heavy artillery reduced the enemy's batteries to silence.

In the region of Amy, south of Roye, between Soissons and Rheims, there was a mine duel. We successfully blew up two small mines in the region of Tryon and a third near La Pompelle, south-east of Rheims.

In the Vosges, our artillery was very active in the region of Muhlbach. This morning an enemy long-range gun shot about ten shells on Nancy and its outskirts. Two inhabitants were killed and seven were slightly wounded. The material damage is of small importance. The gun which fired was immediately countered.

SUNDAY.

In Champagne our heavy artillery carried out an effective bombardment during the night against some enemy hutments north of the Bouconville-Malmaison Wood. A German grenade attack against our trenches in the neighbourhood of the road between Tahure and Somme-py was beaten back.

GERMAN DESPATCH.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

AMSTERDAM, SUNDAY.

To-day's German official communiqué says—

Western theatre of war:—During the night of December 31-January 1 attempts by strong English detachments to penetrate our position near Fremlinghem, north-east of Armentières, failed. North-east of Hulluch, after a successful mine explosion, our troops occupied the crater.

We captured a hostile trench south of the Hartmannsweilerkopf, and made more than two hundred men prisoners.

SIGNS OF VICTORY.

LORD DERBY AND THE FUTURE.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

PARIS, SATURDAY.

The Matin asked a number of eminent personages belonging to the Allied countries their opinions as to the future. All affirm their unshakable confidence in final victory.

Lord Derby says:—Our Allies may be assured that our efforts will not be lacking. Our Governments and our peoples have confidence in each other, and our soldiers and sailors are conducting the assault with valour, and this happy combination of confidence and courage is a certain sign that we shall carry off the victory which will bring with it a durable peace not only for the present generation, but also for generations to come.

Sir Edward Carson says:—Our first and principal object ought to be to contribute to the ardent desire of our Allies, the French and Belgians, to liberate their countries from the cruel invaders who occupy it. We do not let ourselves be distracted from it, and we hope in a day near by when the sun will shine again on a France and a Belgium capable once more of realising their ideals of liberty. To obtain this result we should never lose sight of:

1. The necessity of a permanent co-operation of the different Allied Staffs, whose plans may thus be co-ordinated and concentrated.
2. The subordination of political considerations of relative importance to military exigencies and necessities.
3. The necessity of maintaining the most complete economic pressure on Germany.
4. The uniting of our efforts and resources until the day when we can strike effectively and continuously on a vital point of the enemy's front.

I do not doubt of final victory. That it may be as speedy as possible is my sincerest wish.

M. Vesnitch, Serbian Minister in Paris, says:—The crowning feature of this war will consist in the definite recognition of the equality of States or nations without regard for their extent or the number of their inhabitants. Fighting for real civilisation and for liberty and justice, which means at the same time against barbarism and against an unsupportable hegemony unworthy of our time, the Allied Powers owe it to themselves to proclaim this beautiful principle, and to put it into practice, because human progress will gain immensely by it. May the New Year bring us, along with victory, the reign of right and justice. Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy, and Russia will thus be writing the most beautiful page in their history.

KING PETER AT SALONIKA.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

ATHENS, SATURDAY.

The King of Serbia, accompanied by some of his Ministers, arrived at Salonika to-day on board a French warship.

COLONEL NAPIER'S LETTERS.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

AMSTERDAM, SATURDAY.

A Vienna telegram claims that the letters and despatches taken from Colonel Napier and Captain Wilson on the 4th ult. by an Austrian submarine contain interesting material, which the Austro-Hungarian Government intends publishing.

The telegram pretends to summarise proposals alleged to have been made to Greece by the British Minister on November 26, and also summarises various letters alleged to have been written by British Secretaries of Legation, some of them not altogether flattering to Greece.

EFFICIENCY OF OUR NEW GUNNERS.

BLUEJACKETS IN THE TRENCHES.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS, FRANCE, JAN. 1.

One of the pleasing surprises of the war—we have had a few on the other side—is the remarkable efficiency of our artillery. There is no harm now in admitting that when it was decided to multiply our Army by ten, the chief difficulty apprehended by those who really knew lay in this direction. Six months "on the square" will suffice to turn out an infantryman, who may be put into the field with reasonable confidence, but the practice of modern gunnery is a long and complex science to master. In the art of concealing battery implacements, in accuracy of registering, and in the intensity of fire delivery, the British artillery is splendidly effective. I had a good opportunity of appreciating this fact yesterday, when a shell shattered a spot not more than a mile in rear of our front trenches. I watched a brief but fierce spell of bombardment. The military reason for thus speeding the closing year with a vigorous outburst of "strafing" matters not in this connection; suffice it that the Germans had "asked for it," and that from every description of gun, ranging from the 15-inch howitzer to the lightest field piece, they were catching it with thunderous vehemence.

The day was clear, the famous Tower Bridge of Loos standing silhouetted in black filagree against the winter bleakness, and the perished-looking poplars and charred and sieve-like buildings dwindled to the far horizon in sharply cut details. To right of me, to left of me, abreast of me, and in front of me the guns were winking and crashing with breathless rapidity. As each fresh crimson flash revealed yet another gun position, I would turn my glasses upon the thin haze of grey vapour which followed, but with the landscape flat enough until it had fallen into the range of Norte Dame de Loretto, miles away, never a glimpse of a gun, shell-carrier, nor human being could I once catch.

As to the effectiveness of the shooting, I think the fact that the German salvoes died down into an occasional exhausted splutter, and that our batteries had the last word, is sufficiently good testimony of this. So smart are our gunners, indeed, that a trench commander told me that if he wanted artillery fire concentrated upon any troublesome spot he could reckon on the average that the range would have been picked up, and the shells begin pumping in within a marvellously short time of getting through the messages.

The artillery fire of both sides is restricted, under the normal conditions of daily duelling, by a common understanding. For instance, the Germans have discovered that if they attempt to bombard B—— we at once blaze away at L——. This plan of retaliation is not without its advantages, for, as a Staff officer put it to me: "it makes things more settled for us who have to live here." Of course, in the event of anything big developing, this mutually enforced limitation would be blown to the winds.

VISIT FROM NAVAL MEN.

On Thursday last a party of four naval officers and fifty ratings arrived from the North Sea. They were drawn in Paris from depôt ships, flotillas, and single ships, and were as representative a naval group as could possibly have been selected, including seamen, stokers, mechanicians, marines, writers, etc. Their visit is in continuation of the plan under which a certain number of naval men are periodically to make a journey to the Western front and spend a few days there, so as to see for themselves—to tell it to the rest of the Fleet—how the Army is living and fighting while they hold the outer ring for them upon the winter seas. As a result of a chat with several of the sailors I was enabled to appreciate what a really excellent idea this is; for it is quite possible that at times Jack, clinging to the rail of a sobbing destroyer in the howling blackness of a Dogger Bank night, has thought that Tommy has a soft job in comparison with his, and that Tommy has occasionally regarded waiting for the Fleet that never appears as a mere pastime compared with what he is going through.

"I have been in every kind of scrum since the war began," said a finely-built Chief Petty Officer to me. "I was in the battle of Heligoland Bight, and shortly after bumped a mine. I was in the raid against Cuxhaven and the little affair when four German destroyers said 'Amen.' I have been submarine-hunting—no child's play—and when I tell you that I am at present serving in the first destroyer flotilla you will guess that I am not on regular all-night-in service; but after the time I spent in the trenches last night I wouldn't change my job with any of those gallant chaps for the full cap of a Port Admiral. It isn't for the like of me to presume to give the Army a message from the Navy; but I shall certainly tell all my mates that what I have seen at the front is past believing, on the strength of pictures and newspaper accounts. Of course, the lads in our Service would stick it if called upon to do so—nobody doubts that; but it don't come our way. We'll do our bit for them, and see to it that they never go short of grub and gun-stuff, if it's only a question of risking our lives to keep the seas open against all-comers; and what I say is God bless the boys in the trenches, and may the new year see them mop up the Bosches as if they were a pile of clinkers on the quarter-deck!"

It is characteristic of the "handyman" that after a sleepless night in the trenches he was as cheery and full of humour as though he were enjoying the dog-watch spell in his own mess.

I came upon a party of about thirty of them, one of their officers being an Australian and full of pardonable pride in the way his great little Service had laid the glorious foundations of its future history. They were all dressed in khaki for the occasion, and the fact that several of the burly figures were in imminent danger of bursting out of their straining tunics, and that the cling of their "slacks" was reminiscent of the best traditions of red-nosed comedy, was a source of much racy and very direct badinage.

A leading stoker, whose voice trembled upon the ear like a muffled gale of wind, informed me that he had been using a rifle all night, and only hoped that Providence had directed at least one of his bullets into the liver of a blooming Bosche. "The swipes did for my oilskin," he moaned. "I laid it on the roof of a dug-out to keep it dry and safe, and beggared if one of their nasty little rifle bombs didn't shiver it to shreds."

I was afterwards told that there was great trouble in keeping this man down in the trench, as he would insist on swarming on to the parapet, saying he would shoot so much better up there. A great rat leaping out between his legs presently gave him "a bit of a turn," and he consented to keep cover. A bombing attack was organised against an adjacent enemy trench, and this afforded great satisfaction to the naval men, who hurled their share of the deadly missiles, and as many more as they could snatch from the soldiers' share, with the utmost zest. During their stay they attended some lectures designed to give them a good idea of the situation, and the fighting by which this has been developed, and were shown something of the great organisation by which the Army is maintained.

ANSWERING THE CALL.

IRISH SOLDIER'S CHRISTMAS WISH.

The following letter has been received in Ireland from a private in the Royal Munster Fusiliers who was wounded in the retreat from Mons and has been since then a prisoner in Germany:—

"I hope you will have a happy Christmas, and I hope we will be together for the next one. Never mind if we are away from the old country this year; we will not be down-hearted, as we know there is better times coming. I hope dear old Ireland is going on well and answering the call. We are all in the best of spirits and looking forward to the end, which I hope is not far distant."

EASTERN FIELD OF WAR.

GREAT BATTLES IN GALICIA.

CAPTURE OF AUSTRIAN TRENCHES.

RUSSIAN VICTORY IN THE BUKOWINA.

The despatches from the Eastern field state that a great battle is raging from the River Pripet to the Rumanian frontier. Neither side has gained a decisive advantage, but any changes in the line of the front have been to the advantage of the Russians, who crossed the River Styr, near Czartorysk, and captured the village of Kriasi, from which the most desperate efforts of the Austrians were unable to dislodge them.

Two lines of Austrian trenches have been captured on the River Strypa front, and in the district of Ussetchko the Austrians have been driven to the left bank of the Dniester, and between the Dniester and the Rumanian frontier the Russians have forced the enemy's wire entanglements, and consolidated the ground won. The Austrians describe the fighting as continuing with undiminished violence, especially on the Lower and Middle Strypa.

A late telegram from Petrograd states that in the Bukowina the Russians have captured the heights north-east of Czernowitz, taking 870 prisoners.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

PETROGRAD, SATURDAY.

A great battle or series of linked battles are proceeding on the south-western front. This is judged by the fact that the Russian military authorities estimate that the Austro-German forces under Field Marshal von Mackensen and General Pflanzer, from the Pripet to the Rumanian frontier, amount to one and a half millions.

Only fragmentary news has been received of the fighting, but it is authoritatively stated that the enmy has not made any progress, that the Russians have retired nowhere, and that any changes in the line of the front up to now have been to the advantage of the Russians.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

PETROGRAD, SUNDAY.

The Russians have captured several heights north-east of Czernowitz, taking 870 prisoners.

RUSSIAN REPORT.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

PETROGRAD, SATURDAY.

The official communiqué issued to-night says:—

On the front from the Gulf of Riga as far as the Pripet region there is no change.

South of the Pripet fighting continues with undiminished determination. In the sector of the River Styr between the Kovel-Sarny Railway and the village of Czartorysk we crossed to the left bank of the Styr, and captured the village of Khriasi. Desperate counter-attacks, by which the enemy strove to drive us back to the right bank of the Styr, were unsuccessful, as also were attempts to expel us from the Milasheff region, south-east of the village of Kolki, north of the station of Olyk. We advanced and consolidated the ground won.

On the front of the River Strypa we occupied two lines of enemy trenches.

In the district of Ussetchko we drove back the enemy to the right bank of the Dniester.

Between the Dniester and the Rumanian frontier we reached the wire entanglements of the enemy, forcing them and consolidating the ground won.

AUSTRIAN DESPATCH.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

AMSTERDAM, SATURDAY.

To-day's Austrian communiqué says:—

Fighting in Eastern Galicia continues with undiminished violence. Yesterday fighting centred on our front on the Middle and Lower Strypa. In the region north-east of Buczacz, shortly after noon, the Russian artillery became active. The fire lasted until the evening, and then the enemy began to attack. The Russians here advanced four or five times to our entanglements, but their attacks collapsed everywhere owing to our fire. At night the enemy retired to his original positions, six hundred to one thousand paces further back, abandoning hundreds of dead and wounded. The attacks which the Russians made near Jasolwiec, south of Buczacz, and near Ussetchko, on the Dniester, met with the same fate as those on the Middle Strypa.

On the Bessarabian front the day was comparatively quiet.

The positions of the army of General von Bothmer, on the Upper Strypa, and the army group of General von Boehm Ermolli, on the Ikwa, were under fire from the enemy's artillery. Before the front of the Archduke Joseph Ferdinand a Russian battalion was scattered which attacked south of Erestiany.

On the Styr and the Bug and north-east of Czartorysk German and Austro-Hungarian troops were successful in seizing hostile advanced posts. Near Colodia, west of Rafalowka, we repulsed an attack.

GERMAN DESPATCH.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

AMSTERDAM, SATURDAY.

To-day's German official communiqué says:

Near Friedrichstadt a Russian attack attempted across the frozen River Dvina collapsed under our fire.

At several points on the front hostile Jaeger detachments and patrols were repulsed.

North of Czartorysk German and Austro-Hungarian reconnoitring bodies advanced and captured about 50 Russians, and at night returned to their positions. The Austro-Hungarian batteries of the army of General Bothmer took part in the repulse of the Russian attacks south of Burkanov.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

COMPULSION BILL.

NO EXCEPTION FOR IRELAND.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION TELEGRAM.)

It is now understood that the bill dealing with military service, which, as announced in the official Whip issued to the members of the House of Commons, will be introduced by the Prime Minister on Wednesday, will apply to the United Kingdom generally, and that there will be no exception in the case of Ireland.

No statement can yet be made as to the position of those Ministers who have been most strongly opposed hitherto to compulsion, and whose attitude now, perhaps, in some part depends on the power of the Government to secure for their new policy something like general assent. The situation will, no doubt, be thoroughly reviewed at the Cabinet Council to be held to-morrow (Tuesday).

LATEST RUSSIAN REPORT.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

PETROGRAD, SUNDAY.

To-day's communiqué says:—

In the Riga region, on the Baldon Road, there was a lively fusillade and cannonade, in which an armoured German motor car participated.

In the district South of the Jacobstadt region and near the Podunay farm, there was lively artillery and rifle fire.

In the region of the Poneviege Railway, the Germans threw in our trenches some hand grenades and smoke bombs.

To the North of Czartorysk, the enemy twice attacked our fortifications, but met with heavy losses, and was thrown back into his own trenches. We captured an officer and seventy men.

On the Strypa front, the enemy, under the pressure of our troops, were obliged to fall back on new fortified positions.

A particularly fierce fight occurred near Czernowitz, where we occupied several heights, capturing 15 officers, 855 men, 3 machine guns, and a bomb mortar.

LATEST AUSTRIAN DESPATCH.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

AMSTERDAM, SUNDAY.

The communiqué issued in Vienna to-day says:—

Russian Theatre of War—The enemy has now also resumed the offensive on the Bessarabian front against the army of General Pflanzer. The enemy, after twice unsuccessfully attacking on New Year's Eve, and once on the following morning, began to-day's attack at 1 o'clock in the afternoon against our entrenchments near Toporutz, and was repulsed after hand-to-hand fighting.

Two hours later in the same sector six enemy regiments advanced, most of which were repulsed. The fighting within the sector of one of our battalions has not yet concluded. The enemy losses were extraordinarily great.

On New Year's morning our Strypa front, north-east of Bucacz, was unsuccessfully attacked by Russians.

An attack against our entrenchment north-east of Burkanow also failed.

The number of prisoners taken in one week in East Galicia total three thousand.

South of Dubno, and near Berestany, in the Kormin district, minor attacks were repulsed.

THE RUSSIAN INITIATIVE.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

PETROGRAD, SUNDAY.

Whichever side began the offensive, and whatever gap in events have to be filled up by the raising of the curtain, the fighting in Volhynia and Galicia points to the initiative on the whole front of from 170 to 190 miles being now with the Russians. The Russians seem firmly established across the Styr, north of Czartorysk, and have captured the village of Khriasi, three miles from the river. An enemy flank attack, six or seven miles south-east of Kolki, failed to shake the solidity of the new Russian dispositions.

REFUGEES FROM BELGIUM.

LIFE IN BRUSSELS.

A steamer, conveying 62 British women and children, and a few men and 300 Belgian refugees, arrived at Tilbury at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. According to the women from Brussels, every particle of fat was taken from the meat and sent to Germany. There was plenty of bread, and for the past eight months it had been white. Bread tickets were still in vogue. Housewives and shopkeepers were requested to make a return of potatoes in their stores. In the case of English women, whose husbands were interned, the supply of potatoes was stopped a month ago. Soap was very scarce. The Germans in Brussels were very uneasy. The vigilance on British and Belgian subjects had been increased. The American Consul recently informed all women that they had better go back to England at once, as it would possibly be their last chance. An Irish girl, Norah Kevans, who was going to her mother in Dublin, was the spirit of the party. Dressed in a long, red coat, with a hood, Miss Kevans carried a birdcage, wrapped in a blue print dress. "That's my canary in there," she said. "I have brought it all the way from Brussels, where I was a governess. The Americans have been very kind. We arrived at Rotterdam on Thursday, and the Americans had prepared a nice dinner for us. It is grand to get home to England. When I get to Ireland I shall kiss the ground."

Miss Rose Gablin, of London, said that the Germans do not want people without money. A nurse stated that she spoke to Nurse Cavell after she was imprisoned. "We had no news of her until we saw a notice that she had been condemned to death. Nurse Cavell had already been executed." Miss Edith Carter was imprisoned for twelve months as a suspected spy.

KING PETER OF SERBIA.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

ATHENS, SATURDAY, 2 P.M.

With regard to King Peter's arrival at Salonika, a usually well-informed evening paper attributes to an official source the statement that His Majesty has gone there for the benefit of his health, the climate of Skutari not suiting him. Further, his visit to Salonika is natural, in view of the presence with the Allied troops of a large Serbian element, whom the King is desirous of inspecting. The possibility is mentioned of King Peter paying a visit to King Constantine.

3 P.M.

It is announced that King Peter has asked for the withdrawal of the troops told off for his reception, as he is not landing. This statement, though unofficial, has provoked much comment. Presumably King Peter wishes to avoid any official reception.

MR. J. H. THOMAS AND COMPULSION.

At Bournemouth last night, Mr. J. H. Thomas deprecated the attitude adopted by a section of the Press in favour of Conscription, and said that the serious matter which had to be faced was whether the Press or Parliament was to rule this country. Whatever the figures of Lord Derby's scheme they would not have satisfied these people who were out for blood. It was the slippery slope which would lead inevitably to the curse of militarism here, and the working class must be alert to the dangers ahead. The appetites of the Conscriptionists grew on what they fed upon, and would lead to industrial conscription in the workshops.

STORM AND THE TELEGRAPHS.

Owing to the severe storm in England there is still considerable interruption of the telegraph service, and on last night the Post Office was unable to give us the service of our special wire. We are, therefore, without our Times extracts and selections from the London morning papers.

EGYPTIAN FRONTIER

FIGHT WITH ARABS.

ENEMY'S HEAVY LOSSES.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

CAIRO, FRIDAY.

Further details of the action on Christmas Day show that the enemy's losses were greater than at first reported.

The British occupied the enemy position at the camp westward of Mersa Matru.

The Arabs fled in hasty and disordered retreat, losing 400 killed and 82 prisoners. A considerable number of camels and sheep were captured, and a quantity of ammunition and supplies was destroyed. One of the enemy's guns was disabled by our artillery fire.

The retirement was so hurried that Gafaar Pasha, the commandant, left his office and private papers in our hands. Our casualties were 10 killed and 4 officers and 49 men wounded.

On the evening of the 28th another column left Matru to disperse a gathering of hostile Bedouins under Sayed Harun, twelve miles to the south-east. The enemy, however, dispersed during the night to the south-west. The enemy camp and water supply were occupied.

PRAYER AND THE WAR.

INTERCESSION FOR NATION AND EMPIRE.

Yesterday was observed in all the Churches as a day of intercession for the nation and Empire in the present crisis. In every Christian denomination special prayers were offered for the success of our arms, and for the speedy termination of the war. The sermons had special reference to the state of religion in the Kingdom, and the need for individual introspection. At St. Patrick's Cathedral the Morning Service opened with the appropriate hymn, "Great King of nations, hear our prayer, while at Thy feet we fall, and humbly, with united cry, to Thee for mercy call." The anthem was "Judge me, O God, and plead my cause against an ungodly nation. . . Wherefore mourn I because the enemy sorely oppresseth me?" The sermon by the Dean at Morning Service was the shortest on record at the Cathedral. It consisted of the reading of the Pastoral Letter from the Archbishops of Armagh and Dublin (the text of which has already appeared in the Irish Times), and the announcement of the object to which the offertory would be devoted. At the afternoon Services for children, the minds of the young people were also directed to the need for prayer to Almighty God to save the nation. Again in the evening the Litany of Intercession was said, and special addresses were delivered to the people.

For the use of the Methodist churches, a special form of Service was used. It began with the hymn "O God, our help in ages past." The minister then called upon the people to "draw nigh to God, and He will draw nigh to you." The Litany also contained the hymn in memory of those who have fallen, "Peace, perfect peace," and the Services closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

In the Presbyterian churches, Baptist churches, and the churches and meeting places of other denominations of Protestants intercessory prayers were also offered up.

In all the churches the offertories were in aid of the fund for the sick and wounded at the front as administered by the British Red Cross Society and the Order of St. John of Jerusalem.

LONDONDERRY.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDONDERRY, SUNDAY.

At the Intercessory Service in Derry Cathedral to-day the Dean of Derry said that they should pray that the willing spirit might spread more and more among the young men of the Kingdom, so that they would readily respond to the call for their service against the country's enemies. They thankfully recognised the nation's rising spirit in favour of universal service. If this found a definite expression, as now seemed likely, it would be all the stronger from having been reached, not by a sudden decision imposed from without, but by the process of gradual education, where the steadily growing conviction of its necessity had won over the support of many who were at first opposed to the idea. It was right that the whole manhood of the country should be trained for its defence, and none should be allowed to shirk this plain elementary duty. Such a rule would only have a terror for the shirkers, who would no longer be able to take a mean advantage of the patriotic men's voluntary services. Let us pray, too, the Dean added, that we in Ireland may be spared the deep humiliation and disgrace of seeing our own country branded for ever as the unworthy shirker of national duties, the one contemptible spot in His Majesty's Dominions that takes no pride in maintaining unsullied the honour of the national flag.

ASTONISHMENT IN AMERICA.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

WASHINGTON, SATURDAY.

The American officials received with astonishment the news of the torpedoeing of the Persia, with the possible loss of American lives. Coming at the very time when the adjustment of the Ancona affair seemed close at hand, it has created a most unpleasant impression.

State Department officials who had been inclined to take a rosy view of the result of the negotiations with Austria, now have nothing to say. It is known that they believe that sufficient time has elapsed since the negotiations reached the basis of a conclusion to enable Austria to notify all her submarines not to torpedo any ship without previously removing non-combatants.

It will be recalled that, while President Wilson was negotiating with the German Government on the Lusitania massacre, the Arabic was sunk in almost similar circumstances. There is little doubt that this latest incident will mean new diplomatic action, and that the United States will reiterate to Austria her unalterable policy that the laws of nations and the laws of humanity must be observed in warfare at sea.

The American Consul at Alexandria has been instructed to forward immediately all available information.

FRENCH LINER SUNK WITHOUT WARNING.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

MARSEILLES, FRIDAY.

The rescued crew and passengers of the Ville de la Ciotat, the torpedoed French liner, arrived here yesterday on board the British ship Crispin. The rescued passengers are unanimous in asserting that the liner was torpedoed without warning, and that it was only due to the captain's skill and rapidity of action that there were fewer victims than had been expected. The torpedo which sunk the ship was fired at a range of only 300 yards. A boat containing seven of the crew and a number of passengers was dragged down as the ship sank, as the tackle could not be released in time.

PRAYER AND THE WAR.

Cork, Cloyne, and Ross, and in many cases the National Anthem was sung. At morning prayer at St. Finn Barre's Cathedral Dean Babington preached on the subject of "Efficiency of Prayer."

SERVICES IN ENGLAND.

Services of Intercession were held throughout England yesterday. At Sandringham Church the Service was attended by the King and Queen, Prince Albert, Princess Mary, Prince Henry, and Prince George. The Service commenced with the hymn, "Lord in this Thy Mercy's Day," sung kneeling. Other hymns used were "O God, our Help in Ages Past," "O God of Love," and "Holy Father in Thy Mercy." The Exhortation was said by Bishop G. Forrest Browne, late Bishop of Bristol, and the Intercessions by the Rector, the Rev. Rowland Grant. Bishop Browne preached.

At the Morning Service at St. Paul's Cathedral the Bishop of London preached. What, he asked, did God think about it? That was the only question worth asking on the first Sunday in the new year. God had no special favourites. He was not the special God of the British Empire any more than He was of the German. It was part of His education of the world that He never allowed a nation or an individual to escape from the responsibilities of their mistakes or did their work for them. The moment we understood that idea, the fact that we had not yet won the great war was nothing short of absurd. If there had been a miracle at all it was the escaping of a worse disaster than they had ever yet had. No General really knew or could tell them what stopped the avalanche from sweeping over Paris, and as far as our own country was concerned the really astonishing thing had been the raising of three million men in eighteen months by voluntary enlistment. Nothing had happened which must not happen when an unprepared nation had to meet one which had prepared for forty years.

ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCHES.

High Mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Cathedral to-day, at which there was an immense congregation. Sir Henry O'Shea, Mayor of Cork, and the Roman Catholic members of the Corporation attended in State, being given special seats in the Cathedral. In all the other Roman Catholic churches of the city special devotions were conducted throughout the day, and the people were entreated to pray for an early ending of the great tribulation that is now passing over the earth.

KAISER'S NEW YEAR MESSAGE.

ALLIES' "IMPOTENT MADNESS."

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

AMSTERDAM, FRIDAY.

According to a Berlin telegram, the Kaiser, on the occasion of the New Year, has addressed the following order to the German Army, Navy, and Colonial troops:—

Comrades,—One year of severe fighting has elapsed. Whenever superior numbers of the enemy tried to rush our lines they failed before your loyalty and bravery. Everywhere where I sent you into battle you gained glorious victories. Thankfully we remember to-day, above all, our brethren who joyfully gave their blood in order to gain security for our beloved ones at home, and imperishable glory for the Fatherland. What they began we shall accomplish, with God's gracious help. In impotent madness, our enemies, from west and east, from north and south, still try to deprive us of all that makes life worth living. The hope of conquering us in fair fighting they buried long ago. On the weight of their masses, on the starvation of our entire people, on the influence of their campaign of calumny, which is as mischievous as malicious, they believe they can still reckon. Their plans will not succeed. Their hopes will be miserably disappointed. In the presence of the spirit of determination which imperturbably united the army and those at home with a will to do one's duty for the Fatherland to the last breath, and a determination to secure victory, we enter the New Year with God for the protection of the Fatherland, and for Germany's greatness.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

AMSTERDAM, SATURDAY.

A Berlin telegram states that the Kaiser has written to General Falkenhayn saying:—"I cannot let the year 1915 end without remembering our great military successes." The Kaiser sums up these successes, and adds:—"They can only be fully appreciated by later historical writers." The Emperor praises the bravery of his troops and the work of the Supreme Army Command, and concludes:—"So I know, I and the German people in the coming year of war can trust the command of the Army."

SUPPLY OF MUNITIONS.

THE DILUTION OF LABOUR.

SPEECH BY MR. ASQUITH.

RESOLUTION OF ENGINEERS' SOCIETY.

PRESS BUREAU, SUNDAY, 6 P.M.

On Friday, December 31st, the Prime Minister and the Minister of Munitions received a deputation of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, who attended to lay before them certain points in connection with the Munitions Amendment Bill.

The deputation was introduced by Mr. J. T. Brownlie, Chairman of the Executive Council of the society, and the Prime Minister and the Minister of Munitions were accompanied by Dr. Addison, M.P.; Sir H. Llewellyn Smith, Mr. W. H. Beveridge, and Mr. Isaac Mitchell.

THE PRIME MINISTER.

In the course of the proceedings, the Prime Minister spoke as follows:—The important thing from the point of view of the State is that this dilution of labour should take place. It is all-important. Mr. Lloyd George cannot carry on his work efficiently and meet the necessities of the war unless dilution is resorted to, nor, consequently, can the Army, until this dilution of labour is resorted to on a large scale, and unless it is applied whole-heartedly. It must be applied whole-heartedly, and with the full consent, and not only the co-operation, but more than the co-operation, of societies like yours. It is all-important that we should get the output we require. It is important from another point of view, and that is that the output should, as far as possible, be domestic, and not foreign, because the financial problem in front of us—and a very serious one—is the obligation to pay, which can only be done in the shape of exports of gold to pay to America and countries like that for the munitions which we are getting from there. It is important from both these points of view, and it is an enormous gain from the point of view both of military efficiency and financial stability. It is an incalculable gain. I do not think there is anything more important at this moment to the country than that the manufacture of munitions should go on here at home on the largest possible scale and under the best possible conditions. I am sure you all agree.

Mr. Brownlie (Chairman of the Executive Council of the society)—We appreciate that.

THE AGREEMENT OF MARCH.

The Prime Minister—But in spite of the agreement made last March, unfortunately this process of dilution has been most sparingly adopted. No doubt, it is a very difficult thing to persuade men who regard what I may call the priorities and privileges of skilled labour as almost gospel to forego for the time being those privileges, and admit unskilled and semi-skilled men into a class of work which skilled men have been in the habit of doing. They have a fear—one, perhaps, which is not altogether unnatural—that when the war comes to an end the re-establishment of the old conditions will be impossible, and that all these elaborate safeguards which have been built up by generation after generation of trades unions for the protection of their members will be found to be undermined. I think that is really what is at the bottom of it. Is it not?

Mr. Brownlie—Yes.

The Prime Minister—I suspect that is the feeling, and I agree it is one which is difficult to eradicate in a moment or even in a month. The only way by which the new arrangement can be successfully dealt with is by the unions exerting all their force to remove these suspicions, and to encourage the men, and, indeed, as far as they can, I will not say coerce, but bring every influence they can to bear upon them under the stress of this great national necessity to consent to this temporary process, which is absolutely necessary for the proper conduct of the war. I do not think you differ from me in anything I have said so far. I believe you feel it as strongly as we do, and that it is your duty just as must as it is ours.

CIRCULAR L 3.

To come back to this circular, L 3. As I gather, if it were observed and carried out by the employers, you would agree that the process of dilution had been properly safeguarded, and that the interests which you represent were not compromised by the substitution to whatever extent it has to take place under the so-called process of diluting skilled labour with semi-skilled or unskilled labour. What I understand you to ask is, that in this Amending Bill the Ministry of Munitions should be given statutory powers to enforce the provisions of the same in controlled establishments.

A Member of the deputation—As well as Government shops.

The Prime Minister—There is no difficulty there, because the State is the employer. It arises only where there is an employer who is not the Government. In other words, it arises only in controlled establishments. That power has already been taken in regard to women who fall within the ambit of Circular L 2. But what you want is that the Minister should have those powers in regard to semi-skilled and unskilled men. I have listened to what has been said, and I have approached the subject with an unbiassed mind, and although I see great difficulties in one way or another, I should be disposed myself to acquiesce in an amendment, carefully framed, on those lines, provided that I could get from you an assurance on behalf of your society that this will settle the whole matter. By "settling" the whole matter I mean to put an end, once and for all, to this long series of, I will not say, complaints—I do not want to use any language that seems to suggest unreasonableness—but of demands and grievances which up to this time, as you must all agree, have hindered the carrying out of the agreement of last March.

A VITAL NECESSITY.

It has not been effectively carried out. As regards large parts of the country it has not been carried out at all. Nine months have elapsed, and this is a matter of absolutely vital necessity. I am speaking for myself and of the impression that has been made upon my mind by our conference together. I feel disposed to suggest to the Minister of Munitions that he might make you this concession, provided he can get from you not as a matter of bargain—we are not here haggling in the market as to the price or quality of goods—an assurance that we have come to an end of all these troubles. The other points which you have mentioned are mainly points upon which we have met you, or which are so subsidiary that they are not worth quarrelling about. But provided we can get from you an assurance that if you are given a safeguard, as you regard it, for your protection, you will see that the agreement made in March will be put into active operation, and as far as you can do it, universal operation, and that the country will secure, partly through your agency, and certainly with your co-operation, the supply which is absolutely indispensable to it of the kind of labour, unskilled or semi-skilled, or by whatever epithet you describe it, without which the fabrication of munitions and the provision of the necessaries, both for the Army and Navy, cannot go on, I feel disposed to suggest that the Minister of Munitions might make this concession. I do not think it is asking too much from those whom you represent. If you find yourselves in a position to give an assurance of the kind I should certainly be prepared to press my right honourable friend here to give way—I do not suppose he needs any pressure, but there are objections which have been forcibly stated on that point—and to clothe himself, or to ask Parliament to clothe him with statutory powers to give effect in controlled establishments to the provisions of Circular L 3. That is the point which I place before you, speaking, as I say, for myself, and as the head of the Government only. One other word I want to impress upon you most earnestly—the vital importance of carrying this agreement out, and carrying it out thoroughly.

DECISION OF DEPUTATION.

At the end of the proceedings the deputation came to the following conclusion:—

"That we, representing the A.S.E. National Conference, having heard the statements and pledges of the Prime Minister and the Minister of Munitions, decide to accept, on behalf of the conference and membership of the Society, the scheme of dilution, and to co-operate actively therein, provided that the Government pledge itself to incorporate in the bill the power to enforce the rates of pay and conditions of labour as set out in Document L 3, as well as L 2, in controlled establishments."

SEVERE GALE.

SHIPPING DELAYED.

DUBLIN.

A violent storm raged in Dublin on Saturday. The wind, which blew with great intensity from the south-west during the past few days, increased in vigour during Saturday morning, and its effect was rendered more discomforting by several heavy showers of rain. In the streets pedestrians found it hard at exposed spots to make headway. Hats were blown away, and umbrellas were turned inside-out, and in a few instances old women were blown down by the force of the gale, and had to be treated in hospital. Slates were removed from roofs, portions of hoardings were carried away, and in some districts roofs were blown off. The banks of the Liffey near Chapelizod were overflown, and the Dodder and Tolka Rivers also were very much swollen and flooded the adjoining banks. Railway traffic generally was not impeded, but a tree which was blown across the line near Merrion caused a short delay in the local service on the Dublin and South-Eastern Railway. Telegraph wires were blown down on most of the lines. The tramway service was maintained as usual. Heavy seas broke over the wall near Dollymount, and the road was strewn with gravel, sand, and stones; but the obstacle which they formed on the tram line was removed in the early morning by gangs of men, and the line was clear before the service was started.

The effect of the gale was most noticeable at the port. Several steamers did not leave their berths, and others making for the port were long delayed.

Messrs. A. Guinness and Company's steamer, the Clareisland, left Custom House quay at half-past eight with a cargo of porter for Manchester. When off the Baily she had to put back owing to the heavy seas, and she reached Custom House quay again at half-past two.

The Burns line steamer Magpie, which left Greenock at seven o'clock on Friday evening, having many passengers on board, arrived in the Liffey at half-past three on Saturday afternoon. She had to cope with a very heavy wind in crossing.

The steamer Brier, from Heysham, also was a number of hours late in coming in.

On Saturday night the wind eased off and the rain ceased, so that when twelve o'clock came the weather was calm. The early hours of Sunday morning were fine.

Rain fell again on Sunday morning, but it did not last very long. The day was fairly fine. In the evening a slight breeze succeeded to a period of comparative calm.

THE STORM ON THE COAST.

TREES BLOWN DOWN.

A severe south-westerly gale prevailed on the coast line from the early hours of New Year's Day. It continued throughout the day. On the seaboard there was little effect, the wind being off shore. Inland the storm made its mark. At various places between Bray and Dublin trees were blown down, notably at Stillorgan, Newtown Park, and Blackrock, where several trees fell across the roads. At Booterstown the fall of a tree obstructed the tram line. A tree blown down near Sidney Parade caused the Dublin and South-Eastern Railway line to be blocked some time while the trunk was sawn and removed. In other townships the danger of flying roof slates was the most unpleasant experience of pedestrians, but in Bray a shop in the Main street had a big plate-glass window blown in. Everywhere the streets were swept with sheets of rain, which only the stoutest clothing resisted. It was altogether most unpleasant weather, and in no sense a harbinger of a happy new year. The one relief in all the wind, wet, and waste of energy was a beautiful rainbow that arched the bay from the Liffey mouth to Kingstown, and stood out in high brilliance for half an hour, a promise that the wet west wind was but a passing mood in nature.

GALE IN BELFAST.

The new year was heralded in the Belfast district by a severe thunderstorm, accompanied by a deluge of rain. The thunderstorm, however, did not last long, but the heavy rainfall continued practically during all Saturday. In the evening it was followed by a severe gale, which made walking difficult on the streets. In consequence of the heavy rain many low-lying districts of the city were flooded, particularly in the Shore road and Newtownards road districts.

FLOODS IN THE MIDLANDS.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

BANAGHER, SATURDAY.

The heavy downpour during the past week has caused very serious floods in the Shannon basin. The whole countryside for miles between Shannonbridge and Meelick, and away southward to Portumna, is inundated to a very great extent near the points where the Suck, the Blackwater, the Upper and Lower Brosna, and the Lusmagh Rivers join the main stream of the Shannon, and considerable damage is being caused to farm produce and stock along the whole valley of the river. Hay and stock are being carried away by the floods and winds, and in many instances potatoes and turnips not yet taken out of the ground are completely submerged. From an early hour this morning a fierce gale has been blowing, accompanied by rain, thunder, and vivid flashes of sheet lightning. Reports from the farming districts tell of much damage to thatched houses, haggards, and stock. Between Shannonbridge and Shannonharbour the principal thoroughfares are flooded and rendered almost impassable, and many houses near the river are almost surrounded with the floods. On the Galway side of the river things are still worse, and to the people living in the low-lying districts of Reisk, Clonfert, and Esker the new year has been ushered in with very great suffering and privation. Many of the houses in these districts are partly inundated and can only be approached by boat. The unsettled state of the weather gives rise to the apprehension of unprecedented floods. Already the river at Banagher is six feet above the summer level, and thousands of acres of pasture lands are submerged.

FLOODS IN ENNIS.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ENNIS, SATURDAY.

A gale of cyclonic violence swept over Ennis and district from the early hours of this morning, and lasted until late in the afternoon, accompanied by a torrential downfall of rain. The Fergus overflowed its banks south of the town, while Mill street, one of the principal thoroughfares, was flooded to a depth of from 18 to 24 inches. All the low-lying parts of the town were inundated.

ATHY.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ATHY, SATURDAY.

The weather in Athy and the adjoining districts of Queen's Co. has been very severe for the past week. On New Year's morning a hurricane prevailed, accompanied by drenching downpours of rain and frequent lightning flashes. People found it difficult to get to the various churches. Slates were blown about the streets of Athy, and in the rural districts trees were blown down and damage done about the haggards. The Barrow overflowed into low-lying lands, and between Kildare and Athy for miles presents the spectacle of a huge lake. The storm prevailed throughout the day, and was the worst experienced for years.

THUNDER AND FLOODS IN MEATH.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

NAVAN, SATURDAY.

This morning a storm of unusual intensity swept over Meath, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, with thunder and lightning. Rain has been falling heavily for the past week, and as a result all the low-lying lands have been flooded, the Rivers Boyne and Blackwater having risen to an unprecedented height. Not for many years has there been such a prolonged wet season, and the incessant rainfall will interfere with early agricultural operations.

FLOODS AND STORM AT NENAGH.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

NENAGH, SATURDAY.

One of the most damaging storms recorded here for a number of years occurred last night and continued throughout the day in this district. High wind, accompanied by thunder and lightning, did a good deal of damage to live stock, and trees were blown down in all parts of the country, rendering traffic in certain districts impossible. In the memory of the oldest resident such floods are unknown. In Dublin Road Lower there are several feet of water, and there, as in other places, the inhabitants have had to leave their residences.

GREAT FLOODS IN COUNTY ROSCOMMON.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

CASTLEREA, SATURDAY.

The incessant downpour of rain for the past three days has completely submerged the low-lying lands in this part of Roscommon. The River Suck has overflown its banks, and there is nothing to be seen for miles around but a great lake of water. Several of the public roads in the Castlerea district are completely submerged, and with the greatest difficulty vehicular traffic can be carried on. Last night's rainfall, accompanied by a strong gale and flashes of lightning, was the worst experienced for a length of time.

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE DAMAGED.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

KILLYLEA, SATURDAY.

All the low-lying places in South Tyrone and Mid-Armagh are flooded. Many farmhouses are completely isolated, and serious damage has been done to the turnip and mangold crops. Large trees have been uprooted, and corn and hay stacks have been scattered in all directions. Several roads are submerged to a depth of from three to four feet, traffic being completely suspended.

MAN DROWNED IN LIMERICK.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LIMERICK, SATURDAY.

The full force of the storm which blew W.N.W. on Friday night and on the greater portion of Saturday was experienced in Limerick. Houses in low-lying situations contiguous to the river had their basements flooded, and much damage was done to house property through the partial unroofing of residences in various parts of the city. The storm helped to raise the ordinary neap tide, at the full in the afternoon, some three to four feet higher than its usual level, with the result that the roadways were placed temporarily under water. The body of an unknown man was recovered from the river, and was removed to the Morgue, pending an inquiry. During the early hours of Saturday a thunderstorm passed over the city and in the country districts.

TRAFFIC ON SHANNON STOPPED.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

GLIN, SATURDAY.

On the Shannon all traffic has been suspended owing to the high seas running. The mails were over two hours late this morning owing to the severity of the storm.

TRAIN HELD UP NEAR TRALEE.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

TRALEE, SATURDAY.

The disastrous results of the storm were visible all over Tralee in uprooted trees blown across the road near Ballymullen, dismantled chimney stacks, brick and slate strewn streets, unroofed houses, and flooding several inches high in different parts of the town. Plate glass windows were blown in, and in Rock street lamp posts were blown down. In the extensive printing establishment of Messrs. J. Quinnell and Sons, Russel street, a large portion of the glass roof was blown in about half-past ten o'clock this morning, but luckily none of the hands employed was injured. So fierce was the force of the gale that the 10.30 a.m. train from Tralee to Mallow was brought to a standstill at the Tralee side of Farranfore. Reports from outlying districts show that considerable damage to property was done by storm and flooding, but happily no loss of life has to be recorded.

FLOODS IN ARDEE.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ARDEE, SATURDAY.

In numerous parts of the district acres of land are inundated with floods, and the roads are submerged in many parts. The inhabitants of the bog area, as usual, are the greatest sufferers, while the poor of the town are to some extent deprived of their fuel on account of the turf supply not being available for use.

TRAINS DELAYED IN CORK.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

CORK, SATURDAY.

From an early hour this morning until the evening the city and district was swept by a violent south-westerly gale, which caused great damage to property and delay in train services to and from here. The Rosslare express did not reach Cork until 2 p.m., being nearly four hours late, as it was held up at several places owing to trees having been blown across the line. The morning trains to the city over the Cork and Muskerry Railway were delayed in the same way. The 6.45 a.m. from Coachford was brought to a standstill at Leemount for nearly an hour, while the 9.5 a.m. from Blarney found its way barred at Victoria Cross by a huge tree, to remove which it took nearly an hour. A large number of passengers alighted and completed their journey to the city on foot. The gale unroofed several houses during the morning. Portion of a house and two chimney stacks fell in Margaret street, and a number of persons who were passing at the time had narrow escapes. Towards evening the storm passed away.

BOATS SWAMPED AT QUEENSTOWN.

Queenstown seafarers pronounce the gale to be the fiercest they had known. A number of small craft have been swamped. Many persons were blown down in the streets, and the damage to house and farm property is considerable.

GALE IN ENGLAND.

WIND BLOWS 100 MILES AN HOUR.

Telegrams from all parts of the Kingdom show that the gale was general on Saturday and of terrific force, being in some places cyclonic. Wires are down in all directions, telephonic and telegraphic communication is in some cases severed, and in others seriously interrupted, with the consequence that great delays ensue. Numerous accidents are reported on land, and sea disasters will, it is feared, be recorded when full information is available. At Liverpool the wind developed a velocity of 100 miles an hour.

At Leicester Open Market stalls were wrecked. A cyclist was blown off his machine and run over by a motor car, but escaped with slight injury.

During the fierce gale at Hull on Saturday night, Captain John Thompson, of the steamship Brierley Hill, was blown from the quayside of the King George Dock into the water and drowned. His wife was on the quay.

SERIOUS ACCIDENTS AT LIVERPOOL.

SEVERAL SOLDIERS KILLED AND INJURED.

Extensive damage was caused in Liverpool and district on New Year's Day, as the result of a gale of exceptional ferocity, which was at its worst during the afternoon. The most serious occurrence was on the Cheshire side, of the Mersey, where, owing to the collapse of a building at a military depot, one soldier was killed, eleven seriously injured, and many others hurt. The men belonged to the 2nd Garrison Battalion Cheshire Regiment, and were quartered at Birkenhead Agricultural Society's Show Ground at Debington, which recently has been utilised as a depot for troops invalided home. Sixty men dined together in a brick building, eighty yards by ten, and hardly had dinner been finished than a mighty gust of wind removed the corrugated iron roof, which was carried bodily until it rested upon an adjacent and similar building. With its removal one of the side walls collapsed and buried in the falling débris many of the men beneath.

A pitiable scene followed, as some time was required to extricate the injured men. Soldiers on the spot, under Captain and Adjutant Beardwood, performed the rescue work, assisted by fire brigades from Birkenhead, Rock Ferry, and Lever's Soap Works. Twelve men, whose condition necessitated medical attention, were conveyed on ambulances to Birkenhead Borough Hospital. On the way one of them died as the result of severe injuries to the head and spine. Great difficulty was experienced in establishing his identity, which had not been cleared up at the time of wiring. The other eleven men are named—Lance-Corporals Beale and Croft, Privates Ashcroft, Connors, Doolan, Entwistle, Pickford, O'Hara, Haughton, Lally, and Harrison. Three were discharged, and, with one or two exceptions the others were reported to be progressing favourably. The most seriously injured of them is Private Ashcroft.

The gale greatly interfered with Mersey shipping and disorganised the cross-river ferry service. A large vessel, the Midland (5,000 tons), was blown from her anchorage in mid-river, and crashed into the landing stage, there being fortunately no other vessel there at the time. Some damage was done to the stage. Owing to the force of the gale considerable time elapsed before tugs could get the Midland safely away. In the city heavy damage to shop property was reported.

ELECTRIC LIGHT STATION FLOODED.

The strong gale and torrential rain in Cumberland on New Year's Day culminated yesterday morning in the flooding of the River Eden and its tributaries. Thousands of acres of land were submerged and the village of Botcherby was cut off by water from Carlisle, which was temporarily put in total darkness through the flood at the Corporation electric light station.

SHANNON IN FLOOD.

FARM PRODUCE SWEPT AWAY.

VILLAGES FLOODED.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ATHLONE, SUNDAY.

Official measurements to-day show that the great floods in the middle reaches of the Shannon are now twelve feet over the normal level. This extraordinary rise in a few days, precipitated by the southern gales and incessant rainstorms, found the poor people entirely unprepared. They had husbanded their produce on uplands regarded perfectly safe from winter flooding, but the present inundation is without precedent, and the precautions taken were absolutely futile. Great quantities of agricultural stuffs have been swept down the river, and reports from the southern areas of the river received to-day state that some cattle are missing, which it is feared have been carried away in the floods.

As to the condition of the people in the affected areas, it is truly pitiful. Many of the villages are completely flooded, with the water flowing against the walls and windows. If there is not a rapid subsidence, the danger of these little cabins falling, as they are thoroughly saturated with water, is imminent. Having gone over the flooded area to-day in a boat, which brought me to the very doors, though more than a mile inland from the bed of the river, I entered one of the houses, and the spectacle was heartrending. The house was that of a man named Hughes, occupied by his wife and a young family. They were huddled together on an improvised floor of planks nearly half-way up the main walls. Underneath the water was rushing in and out, and the bedsteads were standing up in the water, and several dairy utensils were floating about. Hughes said that the family had been in this predicament for the last forty-eight hours. He would have come into Athlone for temporary shelter, but was reluctant to let his stock take chance in his absence. However, he would move in to-morrow. Their only means of cooking and keeping warm was a fire in a pot suspended from the rooftree. This case is typical of hundreds of others. Had the floods, as in other years, raised gradually the people would be much better prepared.

No milk or peat fuel supplies are coming into Athlone for some days, and the scarcity is now very severely felt. The New Year's Day market in Athlone is one of the busiest of the year, but it had to be abandoned yesterday, as no supplies could be brought into the town, and a violent storm prevailed.

IRELAND AND THRIFT.

MOST REV. DR. GAUGHRAN'S PASTORAL.

EXTRAVAGANT LIVING CONDEMNED.

FARMERS AND HOME INDUSTRY.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

NAVAN, SATURDAY.

The following is a summary of a special Pastoral Letter of the Most Rev. Dr. Gaughran, Roman Catholic Bishop of Meath, on the subject of Thrift, read at all the public Masses in every church of the Diocese of Meath on New Year's Day.

Dr. Gaughran referred to his Pastoral Letter of 1909, which dealt with the evils that followed the sin of idleness, and with the necessity for fostering the spirit of work and industry. Proceeding, he said:—

The disastrous war, that has wasted the fairest countries of Europe, preaches the same lesson. Nothing but great and persevering industry can restore the ruin of these unhappy lands. The war has made this subject of thrift one of absorbing interest. It is, however, a very distasteful one. Yet, it must be faced, and the sooner the better. And the war will not be an unmixed evil if it obliges us to lay aside our extravagance, and to return to the plainer, simpler, and healthier way of living of our forefathers. If it could be said, when the war is over, that the good times would still continue, and that we could still make merry and enjoy ourselves, such a statement would be very consoling. But it would not, we fear, be true, and the truth ought to be told, and told at once, for "Forewarned is forearmed." The subject matter, then, does not admit of delay. For if we are to meet the various calls of the State, if the burden of taxation is not to completely overwhelm us, we must be not only industrious, but thrifty. Neither the spendthrift man nor the spendthrift nation can survive. And in the treating of this matter of thrift let us not be taken as encouraging avarice, greed, or selfishness. Thrift is not in any way connected with these ugly passions. It means that money is to be spent, not, however, in thoughtlessness and extravagance. It means that money is to be used, but not abused; that it is to be honestly earned and economically spent. Thrift is private economy. While the object of private economy is to promote the well-being of individuals, that of political economy is to create and increase the wealth of nations. It is the savings of individuals which compose the wealth of every nation. On the other hand, it is the wastefulness of individuals that occasions the impoverishment of States. So that every thrifty person may be regarded as a benefactor, and every thriftless one as an enemy of the State.

MR. LLOYD'S GEORGE'S VIEW.

Dr. Gaughran then quoted the words of Mr. Lloyd George on the 12th May last in the House of Commons, speaking of the want of thrift amongst the people, and said that his words are as applicable to Ireland as to England. The Pastoral proceeded—Let it not be said these are prosperous times, and there is no need of thrift. These are prosperous times, no doubt. But, bear in mind that what seem prosperous times are often the least prosperous of all times. Examine the matter closely and you will find that prosperous times do not make people wiser, better trained, or more religious. On the contrary, these times lead to extravagant habits. The higher prices and the higher wages lead to increased expenditure. Increased wages are often spent in drink. Intemperate habits are thereby formed, and when once formed they remain.

EXTRAVAGANCE—A SIN.

Extravagance is the opposite of thrift, and extravagance is one of the prevailing sins of the country to-day. It is not confined to the rich, but extends also to the middle and working classes. General extravagance is to be seen everywhere. The extravagance in dress is only one of its symptoms. People live beyond their means, and the results are observed in commercial failures and in lists of bankrupts. People allow waste on their farms and in their households, and the results are corresponding losses, that, with industry and thrift, could easily have been prevented. People must live as their neighbours are living, or they must conform to the fashion, even though by so doing they have to incur shop debts that may never be paid. All these forms of extravagance denote want of thrift, and are sure to end in disaster.

THE RAGE FOR DRESS.

There never was such a rage for dress as there is to-day. The present time rivals the corrupt age of Louis XV. in France. A delirium of fashion exists. Women are ranked by what they wear, and not by what they are. Extravagance in dress, and almost indecency in dress, have taken the place of simple womanly beauty. It is one of the scandals of to-day. And it is not confined to the rich; it is to be found in the middle classes, who imitate those above them, and even amongst the poor, who cannot afford luxuries of this kind. Is it not very much to be deplored to see servants with good wages, expending all they earn in trying to secure the latest fashions? Long ago it was not so. The people then, in purchasing clothes, looked to what was comfortable and suited to our cold, wet climate, and paid little or no attention to the lace and embroidery that are fit only for the ballroom or the sunny South of France. We are not now speaking of the latest fashions, and of the indecency of some of these fashions. We are not now considering whether these latest fashions are sinful, and how far they are sinful. We are considering extravagance alone.

THE FARMERS.

Proceeding, the Pastoral stated:—

People allow waste on their farms and in their households, and are thereby violating all the principles of thrift. Here is a farm of 50 acres—the best in Meath or Westmeath. Yet on that farm 8 or 10 acres are almost worthless. These 8 or 10 acres are growing only coarse sour grass, that cattle will not eat, and, if they do eat it, in necessity, it will do them very little good. These acres are waste land, and they are waste land for want of a little labour. The ditches were not opened for 60 or 70 years, and the drains made 100 years ago were never looked to since. If these acres were drained, broken up and renewed, bit by bit, they could be made as productive as the other acres of the farm. But the owner can live an easier and more agreeable life without this labour. Must we not regard this want of attention as thriftles gance?

THE HOMESTEADS.

And what of the homesteads? Su stead, with 50 acres of good land ought to be, to a great extent, self It ought to have milk, butter, eggs, for the use of the family, and m for the market. And it ought t these things as home products, a cheapest rate. Unfortunately, how a state of things does not alwa Often the farmer of 50 acres, and the farmer of 150 acres, will tell y finds it easier to go to the shop for butter, and eggs than to endeavo on his own land the food necess pigs, cows, and poultry that w these things as home products. to us in this course a great want All these articles can be had at h cost, and the extra price to the or to the foreign importer is the And, let us remark that this extra not confined to the farm of 50 a acres; it is sometimes observa labourers' plots. Thanks to Go parishes of this diocese, the labour vided with decent houses and a land. These plots, if properly a would supply, to a great extent of the labourer and his family dur But, how are they cultivated? stances they are not cultivated at a cases they are turned into meadow seems to us a great want of thrift.

The Pastoral concludes:—

And now, dearly beloved, let us clusion that we make these rema cause we think that you need them those across the borders, in the oth of Ireland, but because of the at the present moment for industry So disastrous will the effects of war be in the countries concerned but the greatest spirit of industry will enable the nations to meet their If we are to escape, later on the of '47, we must be prepared, in ev society, to make sacrifices: We to the full the truth of the "Waste not, want not"; "Wilfu woeful want."

ROYAL DUBLIN FUSILIERS.

GENERAL MULLALY'S TRIBUTE TO THE MEN.

The 4th Battalion Royal Dublin Fusiliers was inspected on Monday morning in Gore Court Park, Sittingbourne, by Major-General H. Mullaly, C.B., C.S.I., Commanding the Thames and Medway Garrison.

After the General had inspected the ranks, the battalion was formed up, and General Mullaly said:—Colonel Meldon, officers, and men of the 4th Royal Dublin Fusiliers: I have come to-day to say "Good-bye" to you previous to your return to Ireland, and to express my sorrow at losing you. For over thirteen months you have been under my command, and during that period your discipline has been of the highest, and your general conduct of the best. Into your training and work in connection with the local defences you have put all your hearts, as all good soldiers do, and have nobly upheld the traditions of your famous regiment, the Royal Dublin Fusiliers. At one time I had hopes that I might have the honour of facing the enemy beside you, but that pleasure is not to be mine for the present. Not only am I sorry to lose you, but, from what I have heard locally, many of the Sittingbourne people are equally sorry that you are going. I am afraid that your arrangements for Christmas will be somewhat spoiled by this move, but I wish you all a very happy Christmas. One never knows, and if fortune should be kind enough, I may yet have the pleasure of fighting side by side with you. Good-bye, men, and good luck.

Colonel Meldon briefly replied.

The high traditions of the Royal Dublin Fusiliers were well maintained by the 4th Battalion at the inspection, and Sittingbourne and Milton people regret to learn that the Irish soldiers will shortly be leaving Kent.

CITY OF DUBLIN BATTALION.

An officer of the 4th Battalion writes:—

"We are the City of Dublin Battalion, and we want our return to Ireland advertised. Ninety-five per cent. of the men on parade were recruits under three months. One thousand and fifty-seven come under this category, and forty-seven have more than two years' service.

"I am told that the 2nd Battalion at its best never made a better show, and the doctor told me yesterday that during all the time we have been here he never had a single case of malingering."

He became a solicitor in 1891, and has since practised in his native city of Limerick. The new Knight for some months past has been serving in the Army, having taken great interest in the recruiting movement, and has been posted with the rank of Captain as Recruiting Officer for the counties of Limerick and Clare. His friends in the legal profession, and among his fellow-citizens and the general public, have congratulated the new Knight on the honour conferred on him.

ASTRONOMICAL NOTES FOR JANUARY, 1916.

(FROM OUR ASTRONOMICAL CORRESPONDENT.)

THE PLANETS:—Mercury and Venus are both evening stars. The former is not likely to be observable during the month; the latter is beginning to be a conspicuous object in the evening twilight, low in the south-west. The illuminated portion of her disc diminishes from 0.892 to 0.827 during January. Mars rises at 8.9 p.m. on January 1st. He will be in Opposition on February 12th, rising at sunset. During January, February, and March he will be in the most favourable position for observation since October, 1913. The Opposition of 1916 is an "aphelion" opposition, occurring when the planet is near his greatest distance from the Sun. Mars will, therefore, be less well seen in 1916 than he was in 1913 and 1911. He will in fact be nearly twice as distant from us as he was in 1909 and 1911. Nevertheless, to the astronomer half a loaf is always vastly preferable to no bread, and an unfavourable Opposition of Mars is better than no Opposition. Though nothing very sensational may be expected in the way of discovery on Mars in the next three months, he will certainly present an interesting sight in large telescopes. In smaller ones, the Polar Snow, and a few of the more conspicuous dark markings, will be visible in favourable weather. Not much need be expected of any glass smaller than five inches diameter in exhibiting Martian features. It may be as well to take this opportunity of warning the public against the sensational descriptions and drawings of Mars sometimes published in illustrated papers. No human eye ever saw Mars as some of these represent him. They are the summation of a great number of "glimpses" which some observer or observers thought they got, each "glimpse" lasting a fraction of a second, and many of them probably the result of eyestrain. The largest and best telescopes do not show a network of straight lines on Mars. There are a number of wide, faint bands and smudgy streaks, seldom straight, and usually more or less diversified with knots and darker shadings. The recently issued report of the Mars Section of the British Astronomical Association has made it clear that the popular idea of the so-called "canals" must be given up. There is no evidence whatever that anything of an artificial nature has ever been seen on Mars. Indeed, the word "canal," which has given rise to so much wild and unfounded speculation, itself originated in a mistake. Schiaparelli, who first called attention to the supposed straight lines, called them "channels." The Italian for "channels" is canali, which Schiaparelli's translators ignorantly rendered "canals." Now, it is true that many of the seas (if seas they be) on Mars are long and narrow "channels," i.e., in the same sense as the sea from Dover to Land's End or from Fishguard to Anglesey is a channel. But no one would call these seas "canals."

Jupiter is still present in the evening sky. The observer should begin with him as soon after sunset as possible. Indeed, he is often better defined on a twilight sky than after darkness has set in. He sets in the north-west at 10.35 p.m. on January 1st. Saturn is the planet of the night during January. He is in Opposition on the 5th, and is above the horizon all night during the month. Some of the features of his wonderful system are displayed at their best during the present winter.

THE MOON:—

New Moon	Jan. 5th, 4.20 a.m.
First Quarter	Jan. 12th, 3.12 a.m.
Full Moon	Jan. 20th, 8.4 a.m.
Last Quarter	Jan. 28th, 12.10 a.m.

There will be a small partial eclipse of the Moon on January 20th. First contact with the shadow at 6.54 a.m., Dublin Mean time; middle of the eclipse, 8.14 a.m. As the Sun rises at 8.4, only the beginning of the eclipse will be visible in Dublin. The West of Ireland will have from 15 to 18 minutes longer to view the phenomenon, local time being that much slower than Dublin.

THE STARS:—At midnight on January 1st, 11 p.m. January 15th, 10 p.m. January 30th. At these hours and dates Sirius, the "leader of the host of heaven," is on the meridian, and can be used as a mark of the south point of the horizon, if the observer's watch or clock is accurate. Above him is Canis Minor, with Procyon, the less Dog-star, nearly an hour east of the meridian. Above this again is Gemini; Castor and Pollux are nearly vertically above Procyon. Orion is conspicuous an hour west of the meridian, and above him are the stars of Auriga. Capella, in Auriga, and Aldebaran, in Taurus, are easily picked out by their brightness. Betelgeuse, Orion's right shoulder, and Aldebaran are distinctly red. Rigel (Orion's left foot), Sirius, and Procyon, are white stars. In the south-east the "Sickle" in Leo is an easy group to recognise. At present it contains Mars as a visitor, moving slowly westwards. Saturn lies a little west of Castor and Pollux. Cetus, Pisces, and Pegasus are setting. Virgo and Bootes are rising. Low down in the north, if the horizon is clear, Deneb and Vega may be seen. But if the observer were in the South of England, Vega would be below his horizon. Latitude 51° 18′ north is the limit south of which this star does not complete its circuit without setting. Around the Pole the Great Bear is rising towards the zenith. Cassiopeia, on the opposite side, is sinking towards the horizon, which she never reaches. To see her set one must visit Egypt or the Canary Islands.

PREMIUMS FOR DAIRY BULLS.

The Devon road (Co. Limerick) Cow Testing Association have passed a resolution, impressing on the Department of Agriculture, and the County Committee of Agriculture the necessity of increasing the number of premiums for dairy bulls in that county, and that as far as possible premiums be given to dairy bulls only, such bulls to be the progeny of cows which have yielded at least 800 gallons of milk in one lactation period, and 280lbs. of butter fat; and they called on the Department to establish an advanced register for all well-shaped 800-gallon cows. They also called on all farmers to raise a few heifer calves out of their best milk cows, as hitherto it has been the custom to sell off the best calves in August and September, and keep the culls.
